Football Prospects

With the opening of the 1916 football season less than a week distant, prospects point to a very successful season for Lebanon Valley despite the unusually hard schedule. We have a full team of veterans on hand, and added to these, the new men on the squad are showing football ability. Only three men are lost from last year's team, Hollinger, Von Bereghy, and Bechtel, and although they will be missed Coach Guyer should not have cause for anxiety with the influx of new material and the likely looking candidates from last year's Scrubs.

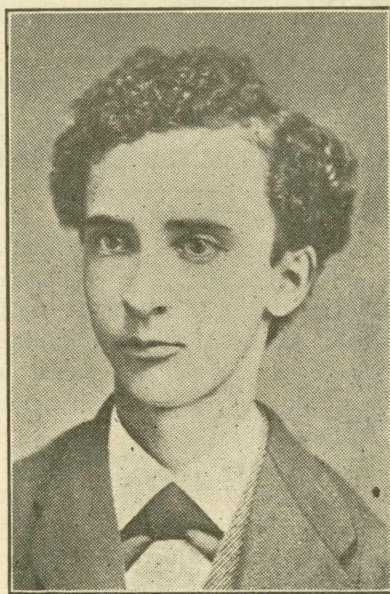

Nearly every position on the team will be held this fall by the veterans of last year, for it is considered unlikely that any of them can be dislodged from their former positions, but there is ample room on the squad for substitutes of the first order. Among the new backfield candidates are Goff, a star back from the Missouri Military Academy, Kickline, who formerly helped Ursinus win a victory over Penn, Forsburg, of Patton, Pa., Winneshiek, substitute center on the Carlisle Indian School team of last year, Hummel, of Bellwood High, and Snader, of Ephrata, Pa. A few of the line candidates are Koslek, of Wilkes-Barre, Stahl, of Sunbury, and Lynn, of Clearfield High. From last year's Scrubs Peiffer, Snively, Shetter, Goodyear, and Rupp, backs, and Lerew, Gonder, Buckwalter, Potter, and Kleinfelter, linemen look the most promising.

Nearly every afternoon during the past week hard scrimmages were held, and the men are getting in fine shape for the game with the Army on Saturday. On account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the vicinity of the Military Academy, Philip Hayes, football representative at the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, has sent to Manager Paul S. Wagner of the Lebanon Valley football team the following memorandum, which is being made public for the benefit of those who may have planned to accompany the team on their trip next Saturday:

Lebanon Valley Formally Opens

The formal opening of the fall term of Lebanon Valley College, located at Annville, Lebanon county, Pa., took place on Wednesday, September 20, at 9 a. m., the two previous days being devoted to examinations and matriculations.

The College starts its fifty-first year with the largest attendance in its history, all dormitories crowded, many of the students rooming in the town. An event of a pleasing nature took place at this formal opening when Rev. G. D. Gossard, D. D., president of the College removed "Old Glory" from the portrait of Hiram E. Steinmetz, of this borough, with appropriate remarks, stating that Mr. Steinmetz is an alumnus of the college of the class of 1874, and presents this portrait to the college to be placed in the Hiram E. Steinmetz Memorial Room in South Hall, a room once occupied by him and two other young men who have gone to the "Great Beyond."

The portrait was painted from a photograph of his graduation. The cut here produced was taken from that photograph. Mr. Steinmetz responded in a happy and humorous manner giving reminiscences, amusing stories coupled with sound advice to the students, his proposed trip to the Pacific coast next year and to

Students' Reception

The Annual Students' Reception was given by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. on Saturday evening in the college gymnasium. The gymnasium was fittingly decorated with L. V. pennants and banners. The new students seemingly felt as much at home as the old ones and the programme, arranged by the associations, was enthusiastically received by the guests. The Philokosmian Orchestra, which occupied the balcony, added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. Following the programme refreshments were served by the joint social

Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was a very interesting one and was marked by a large attendance of both old and new men. Mr. Edwin Zeigler, president of the organization had charge of the meeting. After the singing several old spirited hymns, scripture lesson and prayer, Prof. H. H. Shenk gave the address of the hour, speaking on the subject of the Purpose and Usefulness of the Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. movement is one of the greatest movements of today. Many great men of today have been made through the work of the Y. M. C. A. John R. Mott is an example of this. Not only does the movement include one phase of life, but it includes the physical, the moral and religious; it touches the industrial and social life. The speaker showed the possibilities of the Y. M. C. A. as a life-work and gave examples of men from Lebanon Valley who are making a success in the work. The address was interesting and helpful and was greatly appreciated by all who heard it. Let us make this a banner year for the Y. M. C. A., and this can be accomplished if everyone takes an interest and attends the meetings.

EDITORIAL.

Why did you come to college?

The motives that prompt young men and women to enter college can be classified under three general heads which are very well illustrated by this simple story.

An American, standing on a wharf in Japan was accosted by a laborer who was wheeling freight. The coolie as he passed with his load, looked up and said in his pigeon English, "Come buy cargo?" meaning to inquire if the stranger had come out to Japan on commercial business. Receiving a reply in the negative he framed a new question and said, as he passed the second time, "Come look an' see?" by which he meant to ask if the stranger was a tourist who had come to see the country. Not yet getting the information he wanted he conjured one more motive, and, the third time he trundled his barrow by, the question was, "Spec' die soon?" that is was the stranger there for his health?

To which class do you belong?

If you are here for your health, you will accomplish nothing worth while, but will merely be a burden for your fellow students to carry along.

If you belong to the second class and have come simply to view the country, you will soon find that your role, as a spectator, will be dry and monotonous.

If, however, your case is illustrated by the first question, and, you are here for business, you are to be commended for having the true conception of college life. Get a definite purpose now as you begin your college career, and keeping that purpose constantly before you, work with all the zeal that you possess.

This includes the Lebanon Valley team, substitutes, trainer, coaches and officials, but no spectators in general."

Y. W. C. A.

On Sunday at one o'clock the Y. W. C. A. held its first meeting of the year. The services were led by the president, Miss Heffelman, who gave an extremely interesting and helpful talk on the Aim of the Association. It is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. to unite the girls into closer fellowship with Christ, and to lead a life of service. She brought out very clearly the religious as well as the social side of the organization. Miss Schmidt favored the association with a solo, which was as usual greatly appreciated by the girls.

NEW SENATE RULING FOR SOPHOMORES AND FRESHMEN

At a recent meeting of the men's student governing association, the Senate, a new ruling was adopted whereby the old form of poster scrap is eliminated from the annals of interclass contests. The reasons for such action were obviously the unequal and often unfair matching that occurs in such scraps and also a desire on the part of the Senate to localize inter-class contests. Another form of contest may be substituted.

Was Good Once.

A certain well known composer now in the full vigor of his established reputation was at one time when he was comparatively unknown engaged in writing the music for a production fathered by two managers who knew exactly what they wanted, in addition to knowing next to nothing of the musical classics. After having burned much midnight oil and worked himself into a state of semicollapse in a vain endeavor to produce a finale which would please them the composer tore up page after page of rejected manuscript and in despair took to the theater an entire section of "Faust" to which he had somehow managed to fit the words assigned to him. He played it over, and one of the managers said quite unfeelingly, "Well, Gus, the others were pretty bad, but this one is the rottenest of them all." "So?" remarked the weary musician dryly. "It was considered good when Gounod wrote it!"

Before Mr. Hiram E. Steinmetz spoke the audience sang "America."

A sketch of Mr. Steinmetz is in order. After graduation he resided at Clay for a period of twenty-five years. He first read law with his uncle, J. L. Steinmetz, as his preceptor. Failing eyesight compelled him to quit this, although he is yet a registered law student. He has been connected with the newspaper fraternity for a period of forty years, first associating with Peter B. Fidler, of Hopeland, as editor of the "Clay Township Record." He was twenty-three years in the postal service at Clay post office. He was twenty-one years clerk in his father's store at Clay and conducted the business himself for a period of four years. He held several minor offices.

Mr. Steinmetz is devoted to the cause of education in all its lines and since residing in this borough is regarded a prominent and influential citizen in church and state. President Gossard also announced that the new Moeller pipe organ, to be installed at a cost of $3600, will be named in his honor, as he is furnishing the bulk with more to follow.

Football Game at West Point

A rousing mass meeting was held in the College Chapel on Thursday evening to give the boys inspiration for the game at West Point. Hand books were distributed containing the college songs and yells, and under the direction of the two cheer leaders, Messrs. Williams and Price the chapel resounded with songs and cheers. Timely remarks were made by Prof. Frost and Dr. Rutherford, old alumnus, Professors Shroyer and Kirkland, Coach Guyer and ex-Captain Swartz. On Friday morning the College Band and entire student body accompanied the team to the train. The enthusiastic send-off was very encouraging to the team and had much to do with the splendid showing made by the boys at West Point.

What the New York Tribune says about the game.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The Cadets started their football season last Saturday with a close margin victory over Lebanon Valley. Vidal, the South Dakota lad, of whom much is expected in goal kicking this season, tallied three points for the soldiers when he booted a pretty field goal from the 25-yard mark in the second quarter.

It was all the Army men could get, for their running game stalled when the collegians' line held fast, and although West Point showed plenty of driving power between the 20-yard lines, when it came to the critical moments even such slashing backs as Oliphant and Vidal failed to smash down the visitors' stonewall defence.

Once in the second quarter Vidal hurled a beautiful pass to Shrader at the extreme corner of the field, but the latter's foot projected an inch over the outside line and the touchdown went for nothing.

STAR COURSE.

Within the next few days the Star Course Committee will distribute folders enclosing the list of attractions, dates and other information concerning this year's Star Course. This will be followed by a ticket canvass of the student body. The course is run under the auspices of the Christian Association and has for its primary object, on financial gain, but to bring to you something in the line of educational entertainment which otherwise would not be available. You can aid materially in making it a success by purchasing a season ticket early. Please co-operate.

First Meeting of Math. Round Table

Nothing is quite so interesting nor yet so enlightening as is the discussion of topics relating to the only "exact science," Mathematics. It is for the enjoyment of this pleasure that many years ago, there sprung up under the kindly direction of Pro. Dr. Lehman, an association, a club, a group of people, known as the Math Round Table, whose purpose it is to discuss all topics of current influence in the scientific world, relating especially to the mathematically phases and precisions thereof. This organization held its first meeting on Wednesday evening, September 27, at 6:30 in Prof. Lehman's class room.

The first topic under discussion was "The Mathematics which I forgot during vacation," by John Herring and using his own logic, he convinced us along the psychologic-al lines, that he forgot very little. The second topic, "Early Mathematics" by Ella Nutch was ably discussed both by the author and later by the Round Table.

The next meeting of the Round Table will be held October 25th, at 6:30, in Prof. Lehman's room. An interesting program is promised and a hearty welcome extended to all lovers of the "exact science" to be present.

THE SCRUB SCHEDULE.

The football season opens for the Scrubs next Saturday with a game with Mercersburg Academy. This second Varsity has its work cut out for them the coming season if the record of the past year made by their predecessors is to be equalled. In 1915, only once was the scrub goal line crossed, when Millersville Normal succeeded in scoring a touchdown. The 1916 schedule is one which will tax the ability of the second string men, and if they win from Mercersburg, the Carlisle Indians, and the Bucknell Reserves, perhaps the most difficult contests to be staged, they will have nothing to fear from the other opponents. Charles Gemmil, assistant football manager is to be congratulated upon the schedule, and we hope the Reserves will be as successful in playing the games. The schedule is as follows:

"Gus" Zeigler Wins Tennis Tournament

The final round of the tennis tournament which was postponed from last spring on account of inclement weather during Commencement Week, was played on Wednesday forenoon. Gus Zeigler was opposed by Dannie Walters, the "dark horse" of the tournament, and Zeigler proved to be in the best condition, winning in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2.

During the first set it was anybody's match, but as the battle on the courts progressed Gus improved with each play, and finally, toward the last, fell into his true stride, while Dan could not get going properly. Zeigler, however, is a popular winner, and all will concede that the racquet awarded to the winner by the Athletic Association has gone into competent hands.

There were many surprises during the early rounds of the tournament. Hal White sprung the first when he won from Dave Fink, and soon afterward Dan Walter unexpectedly defeated "Jitter" Zeigler. Then Dan continued his winning streak by triumphing over Hal, 9-11, 6-4, 6-4, thus entitling him to meet Gus in the final round.

Tennis is becoming increasingly popular at Lebanon Valley, and there is no reason why another successful tournament cannot be staged this coming spring. Just now only two courts are in playing condition, one having been neglected during the summer months, but why not have some class volunteer to do the necessary repairing on this third? There is no question but that a student requires an adequate amount of exercise every day in order to do the best grade of work in the class room, and two tennis courts cannot accommodate a student body of nearly five hundred.

Conservatory Notes

The enrollment of the Conservatory at present reaches 75, this being the largest number reached for the opening of a school year. The larger number of this enrollment are not taking the theoretical work.

There have been two new courses introduced this year. The Teachers' Course which offers a course in piano teaching and public school course.

The prospects for the year are most encouraging as well as flattering and if the wishes and aims of the faculty are carried out, this year will be the best year of the Conservatory.

The faculty of the Conservatory will entertain the students of the Conservatory, Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

EDITORIAL.

Lebanon Valley has just entered upon her fifty-first year under circumstances more auspicious than during any previous period of her existence.

For fifty years, through varied stages of success and adversity she has been busy preparing men and women for their various positions in life. These fifty years have been one covering her formative period for it has been well said that no college should be considered successful until she has celebrated her semi-centennial.

The total number of graduates is not great but the rate of increase each year has been very gratifying and shows she has not been standing still or that she means to mark time in the future.

The success of any school is largely dependent upon the loyalty and enthusiasm of her students and alumni. The amount of work done in a school is not governed entirely by the faculty but rather by what the students will do. The coach doesn't win athletic contests by merely telling the men how much they will have to do, it is what the men are willing to do. So it is true of every department and each student should feel it a duty and privilege to raise to the maximum the amount he accomplishes in every department in which he is interested.

A good way to show loyalty to your school is to adopt an aggressive and active "college spirit." By the new student particularly college spirit it may be misinterpreted, it should be above all a spirit of service rather than of negligence, one that will lead a man to attend all mass meetings, athletic contests, social functions of the school and the like with the regularity with which he attends classes. It should lead him to obey rules rather than to ignore them and teach him that at all times an institution is judged by her representatives.

Let each student, old and new, get such a spirit and at once a great step will have been taken toward a yet greater Lebanon Valley for the future.

BABY PARTY

The old girls sought for an novel way to entertain, by which that strong barrier of reserve would be broken down between them and the new girls. A baby party was just the thing. Since children are not responsible for their outbursts of emotions they readily gave vent to crying spells, quarrels and childhood games. Such nursery frolics as Little Sally Water, London Bridge and There Came Four Dukes A Riding, were strenuously played.

Perhaps it would have been advisable from the standpoint of grown-ups to have had a cople of nurses, but the youngsters had a better time without them. Babies from the long dress period to 14 years, played together and even accepted the little coon, who delighted in kissing every one. The remarkable feature of the party was the defiance of the sandman by the babies-in-arms. How the kiddies clamored for the refreshments. The maids could scarcely serve quickly enough.

"Heilman's Malted Milk" was gulped down with a rush while the poor animals lost their heads and tails in the flood. The peppermint sticks acted as life preservers and the children were sent home at the early hour of 10 p. m.

Y. W. C. A.

Y. W. C. A. opened on Sunday with a short song service, followed by a duet by Miss Louise Henry and Miss Miriam Oyer. The topic for the day—"Choosing the Fundamentals" was handled very well by Miss Dunkle and Miss Lutz. Are we going to choose the things that are best for us, the things that count; are we going to let the wonderful opportunities that surround us pass by because of our indifference or neglect? The beginning of this new college year is a good time for us to do a little retrospection and see if we cannot by well choosing make this year the biggest and best of any we have had so far.

FOOTBALL GAME AT WEST POINT

This was the nearest the Army came to making a touchdown. In the last few minutes of play the Cadets launched pass after pass without effect, not one being completed. Vidal tried a field goal in the first quarter from the 35-yard line, but the ball was just inches wide of the posts, with fine height and distance.

We can't have an expansive stretch of healthy life without an expansive sweep of the mind. Little-ness of mind, jealousy, envy, the tendency to gossip, looking for the faults rather than for the good traits in others, all have these adverse, stultifying, dwarfing influences.

The thing to do is not to spend time in railing against the imaginary something we create and call fate, but to look to the within, and change the causes at work there, in order that things of a different nature may come.

To set the face in the right direction, and then simply to travel on, unmindful and never discouraged by even frequent relapses by the way, is the secret of all human achievement.

IT CAN BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,

But he, with a chuckle, replied
That "maybe he couldn't" but he would be one

Who wouldn't say so till he tried.
So he buckled right in, with a trace of a grin

On his face. If he worried he hid it.

He started to sing as he tackled the thing

That couldn't be done—and he did it.

Somebody scoffed: "Oh you'll never do that;

At least no one has ever done it."
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat,

And the first thing we knew he'd begun it;

With the lift of his chin, and a bit of a grin,

Without any doubting or quiddit,
He started to sing as he tackled the the thing

That couldn't be done—and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done;

There are thousands who prophesy failure;

There are thousands who point out to you, one by one,

The dangers that wait to assail you.

But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,

Then take off your coat and go to it;

Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing

That "cannot be done"—and you'll do it.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE

Volume VIII.

Annville, Pa., Tuesday, October, 10, 1916

No. 3

Entered as second-class matter November 12, 1910, at the post office at Annville, Pa., under the act of March 3, 1879

Dartmouth 47 Lebanon Valley 0

Perhaps one of the greatest disappointments of the present season to both the student body and the team, at first sight, is the showing against Dartmouth on Saturday. However, taking into consideration the fact that two of our halfbacks, Swartz and Jaeger, were out of the game due to sickness, that Mackert therefore had to be stuffed from tackle to fullback with consequent unexperienced men in the line, we cannot help but comment the team for even this stand against so strong a team as the Big Greens.

The game opened with our receiving at the goal posts. As was the case four times out of five, the kicks went over the goal line for a touch-back and L. V. started on the 20 yard line. Immediately there was a crash and Wheelock broke through the line for a 12 yard gain making our first down. Then, however, they held us and Wheelock punted in the fourth down, giving Dartmouth the play on the 50 yard line. Through the famous Cavanaugh backfield shift, the Greens succeeded in breaking through our line and repeated their first touchdown within the first five minutes.

Directly, the first down, after we received this second time, Wheelock again ran 15 yards for a first down. However, we made a costly fumble in the second rush, giving Dartmouth the ball on the 35 yard line and a comparatively easy goal.

As a whole, L. V. had three fatal fumbles and Dartmouth one. We made five first downs and Adams recovered a punt. It took our team

STUDENTS' RECEPTION.

Tuesday evening, Oct. 3, 1916, the faculty of the Conservatory entertained the students of the Conservatory. The evening was most enjoyably spent in playing various games the most interesting being a trip on the "Funcille, Frolictown and Feath erbrain Railway." After delicious refreshments were served the evening's pleasure soon came to an end.

Many of the Conservatory teachers and students have secured season tickets for the Friday evening Artists Course to be given in Harrisburg during the winter.

The following is the program:

- Nov. 3. Madame Gadski.
- Nov. 7. Miss Margaret W. Wilson.
- Dec. 8. Mr. Leopold Godowsky.
- Jan. 12. Mr. Eugen Ysaye.
- Feb. 2. Miss Emmy Destinn.

Hughes College League Formed

On Thursday evening a Republican rally was held in Professor Lehman's room in the Administration Building and the local branch of the Hughes Republican College League formed. The meeting was largely attended by the supporters of the ex-justice, and opening remarks were made by Alfred K. Mills, who explained the new college movement in politics, and took charge of the meeting until an organization had been effected and the various officers elected. Officers elected were as follows: President, E. Harold White, '17; Vice-president, Reuben Williams, '17; Secretary and Treasurer, Harold Risser, '17. President White then took charge of the session and introduced the speaker of the evening, Professor H. H. Shenk, State Librarian at Harrisburg.

Professor Shenk gave a very forceful and energetic address upon the present political situation, and stated in a convincing manner the gross mistakes of the Wilson Administration, showing, on the other hand, the peculiar fitness of Mr. "Justice" Hughes, by reason of his sterling strength of character, his deep insight into human affairs, and his extended legislative, executive, and judicial experience to hold the first office in the land.

Much enthusiasm was shown at this first rally, but "real" live times are promised for the future when the campaign gets warmed up and the fireworks begin.

Y. W. AND Y. M. C. A. JOINT SESSION

The first joint session this year of the Christian Associations was held in the library building on Sunday at one o'clock. The members of the associations had the pleasure of listening to Mrs. J. F. Musselman, a returned missionary from Africa. Mrs. Musselman, who is studying sciences at the college this year, is a native of Lebanon, and has a brother in Africa now who is a graduate of Lebanon Valley. She spoke of the work that the United Brethren missionaries are doing and told of some of the wonderful things that are being accomplished at the Albert Academy and other United Brethren fields. After the services a collection of African views which Mrs. Musselman had brought with her, were on exhibition for the benefit of those who attended the service. A male quartette was another special feature of afternoon.

Reserves Lose to Mercersburg

The "Scrubs" opened their season Saturday at Mercersburg Academy by losing to that team 18 to 0. The game was hard fought throughout, and it was because our boys could not get together that the opponents piled up so many points. Through a bad fumble by one of our men, and a clever forward pass by Mercersburg, the latter scored a touch-down within the first two minutes of play. This seemed to have knocked the pep out of our men for the first half, and the opposing team went through our line for many gains. During the second half, however, and especially in the fourth quarter, the Scrubs completely outplayed their antagonists, making gain after gain by line plunges and end runs. The game ended with the ball on the Scrubs' ten yard line. For Mercersburg, the little quarterback, Howard, and Mellinger starred. Rupp, Zeigler, and Goodyear played a fine game for the Scrubs. The boys were up against a well coached team, but after getting together they kept their husky opponents on the defensive. Line-up:

EDITORIAL.

A vital problem of our Colleges today, a problem that has been dominant in the minds of human kind ever since its infancy and a problem that will ever continue to hold its place in the front ranks of the intelligent mind is the great proposition of leisure. Just as the literature of a nation depicts the character of its people, just as the amount of leisure in itself symbolizes growth or decay, in a greater measure does its use portray real worth or unworth. There was at a time in the history of Greece, when its peoples were so absorbed in the duties of life, when their activities were so minutely prescribed by the state that as not to allow of any time for the cultivation of the finer arts of life. The natural result was a static, inorganic, individual and community. But conditions changed. From one extreme they went to another, and we find in place of the system where individuality had no room, a system under which pleasure seeking became the primary motive in life. The leisure class was the highest strata of society; a ban was put upon work and as a natural result we have a demoralized, corrupt nation of people whose ultimate downfall was merely a problem for the mathematician.

But what has all this to do with College life. When some students are asked to go along to religious services, to participate in some physical exercise, or to become a partner in some healthful sociable, the reply immediately comes forth that they have no time. Their later life is a living example of their preparation. Other students there are who apparently never have anything to do. When other active students are engaged in study or repose, they are engaged in some kind of self styled college prank, discomfiting the industrious to ease their own negligent minds. When these former students are engaged in recreations and exercise, the latter loaf around, a disgusted, "blue" lot, because they are unable to appreciate recreation. But what, then should a student do? In this, as in many other problems where the extremes are no apparent, a happy medium is the desirable condition. Not too busy with intellectual greed to neglect the physical wants; and not so engrossed in practical Hedonism, and selfish enjoyment as to disregard the spiritual and intellectual needs of the human body. Instead of saying, "We don't have time to go to church," let us say "We'll make time." Instead of cutting class because we're unprepared, let us quit gossiping an hour earlier the night before. Instead of saying "We don't have time for exercise," let us say "We'll make time," even if to the slight detriment of some branch. For nature demands an accurate accounting. And the man or woman that neglects her, will sooner or later be presented with their account and payment will be exacted in full.

In short, instead of the proverbial "can't," and "don't have time," let us substitute "will," and "make time." When we have arrived at this stage we will as college students be in possession of the true guide to success, and when our course is run and our purpose on earth is ended we will inherit life's richest blessings, that come through faithful persistence and from true culture.

CLASS SCRAP.

Because of the ruling prohibiting the old form of poster scrap between the Sophomore and Freshman classes, no combats were expected. Both sides were very confident however of their superiority whether they tested it or not. But the rivalry proved too great and there was so much energy in each class that an outbreak in some way was necessary. A preliminary tussle was the result of a Freshman hike on Thursday night, but not satisfied with this, on Friday morning after chapel, we see the accustomed scenes of an after chapel scrap. Coats and hats fly in all directions, the Freshmen yell rends the air and the contest is on. What an excitement! Everywhere are excited persons urging their side to do its best. The fight is over, but again the Freshmen give their yell and again the Sophs with heroic effort strive to get the better of their rivals. But at the end, the Freshmen are given the decision, and declared the victors.

CHAUTAUQUA IN ANNVILLE.

From Friday until Tuesday were banner days for Annville for they were the days of her first Chautauqua. Though there were scheduled but three joyous days there were in reality four since the services in the United Brethren Church Sunday evening were given over to the A. E. G. Company who rendered musical selections and Dr. Frank Dixon who delighted a large audience with his lecture on "The Tyranny of the Multitude."

All of the programs offered were of excellent quality, the Chautauqua idea making it possible to secure much better talent than is usual in a place the size of Annville.

Lebanon Valley students should appreciate the opportunity given them to attend such programs of high character and should co-operate with the town in making Chautauqua in Annville a permanent success.

Cursing in Korea.

A strange way of cursing is that of the Korean. His ordinary swear word is "oenuma," or "you brute." But the Korean considers himself especially abusive when he calls a person his child or grandchild. When he wants to call somebody down the Korean demands hotly. "Are you not my child?" And the angry retort is: "What! I your child? You are my grandchild." Then the first goes a step further and cries, "You are a grandchild of my grandchild!" to which the rejoinder is: "You conceited fellow! Have you forgotten that you are a grandchild of a grandchild of my grandchild?" When their vituperation reaches its climax the people of Chosen at last come to the point of exclaiming, "You grandchild of a dog!"

JAPAN'S FIRST GLASS.

Used In Railway Cars, the Natives Put Their Heads Through It.

That observation car would have done credit to any railroad in the world. A Japanese fellow passenger, an official in the Japanese ministry of communications, was amused at our expressions of delight.

"Of course this is all very recent," he explained. "Forty-five years ago there was not a single car nor a single mile of track in the whole of Japan. Why," he laughed, "I can remember the first jerky little trains that were run on the first line to be opened—the one between Tokyo and Yokohama. Glass was a new thing to the Japanese, and there were a great many windows broken and heads bumped during those first few weeks. Passengers persisted in trying to put out their heads without first raising the windows. Finally the glass smashing became so expensive and there were so many complaints over bruised and cut heads that the company was forced to paint a white bar on every window to teach passengers the nature of glass."

Which story we could appreciate, for we had already noticed in the corner of a railroad yard a little old car with white bars painted across the windows. Some of these cars, our companions told us, are still used as third class conveyances on newly opened branch lines, for there are still parts of Japan where the people do not quite understand glass.—Christian Herald.

PACKING A TRUNK.

Here's the Way to Manage the Job to Get the Best Results.

To pack a trunk first collect everything that is to be put into it. Fold everything as flat as possible. Evening dresses and fancy waists may be put into thin pasteboard boxes, packed in tissue paper and tied with tapes so they won't slip around. These will go on the bottom of the trunk.

Save all the oblong pieces of paper that came home from the laundry in the men's shirts and fold the shirt waists around these. Use stockings and things that will not wrinkle for filling in the small spaces that will happen, even with the most careful packing. Put collars, belts and ribbons into small boxes.

Take folding hangers for dresses and coats. Short lengths of ribbon with a safety pin at one end and a brass ring at the other take up no room at all in a trunk and will be useful for hanging up skirts.

If you have no hat trunk and are obliged to pack your hats in the tray, fill the crowns with tissue paper, place them in position and fasten them there with wide bands of cotton tape held to the side of the trunk with thumb tacks.

Keep always in mind that the more tightly the things are packed in the fewer wrinkles you will find at the end of the journey, provided that you have used care in packing.—New York Sun.

Lebanon Valley Defeats Villanova

Lebanon Valley won its first football victory of the season Saturday at Lebanon when the Villanova eleven was forced to bow to our colors. It was an inspiring game for the students and supporters of the College, and virtually every undergraduate of the institution witnessed the contest.

Lebanon Valley kicked off to Villanova but soon got possession of the ball on downs, and then at the beginning of the game the strength of our team began to assert itself. Danie Walter twice advanced the ball for extensive gains, and runs by other backfield men took the pig-skin within scoring range. Then Jaeger, carrying the ball over on a 20 yard dash scored the first touchdown for Lebanon Valley. Mackert kicked the goal and the students went "wild" with joy, for notwithstanding the fine showing of the team in the first two games of the year they were inclined to be pessimistic, remembering the defeat of last year. We did not score again the first quarter but our men made first downs repeatedly and paved the way for another touchdown in the following quarter.

The second quarter was, like the first, all Lebanon Valley. The boys took the ball steadily up the field unmindful of the desperate stand being made by Villanova, and Rupp plunged through the line for our second touchdown. Thus the first half ended 13-0 in our favor, and the players with seven first downs to their credit.

During the second half we did not have things entirely our own way, for Dan Walter and Jaeger were forced to retire from the game on account of injuries. Dan had his left eye badly cut, and could not see well enough to continue playing. Jaeger bruised his side, but it is hoped that both players will be in condition to take part in the Lehigh game on the twenty-first. Keating had to remain on the sidelines the entire game because of an injured leg, but he will be all right at the end of the week. Thus, Mackert had to go to the backfield, and several shifts were necessary in the line in this half. Villanova resumed the aggressive throughout the third quarter, but could not gain consistently enough to seriously threaten our goal.

During the fourth quarter Villanova secured their only score. Lebanon Valley was penalized half the distance to the goal line, and following this our opponents brought the ball to our one-yard line but found a stone-wall defense before them. We

Star Course Seasons Opens

The Adelpia Concert Artists will open the College Star Course, tomorrow evening, with a program selected from a large repertoire of secular and operatic quartettes, trios and duos, several song cycles and standard oratorios.

THE ADELPIA CONCERT ARTISTS.

The mere mention of the names of the individuals composing this company will serve as a sufficient introduction. Mr. David Griffin, Baritone; Miss Marie Stone, Langstone, Contralto; Miss Emily Stokes, Hagan, Soprano; Mr. Henry Gurney, Tenor, and Mr. William Silvano Thunder, Pianist and Accompanist.

Take an evening off and hear this educational and entertaining program. It will be time and money well spent.

It has been said that a man is known by absorption, meaning that we can tell the quality and type of any one's life by the things he allows to absorb him.

The life that is sharing in the interests, the welfare, and the happiness of others is the one that is continually expanding in beauty and in power and, therefore, in happiness.

Sophs. Win Tug-of-War

One of the hardest contested and most interesting Tug-of-War contests was witnessed on Monday afternoon when the Sophs defeated the Freshmen by a 7-2 score. The Sophs got the drop on their greener brothers and won the first three pull in 48 sec., 35 sec. and 1 Min. and 31 sec. respectively. The Freshmen then took a brace and won the next point after a hard pull of 2 Min. and 6 seconds duration. This ended the first half.

In the second half the Sophs again took the lead and won four consecutive points in short order. Here again the Freshman showed their ability to come back and in 2 Min. and 2 Sec. won their second point of the contest. Although the affair was a defeat for the Freshmen and the Sophs deserve all the spoils of the victor, still the "Greenies" are to be commended on their grit and determination.

RESERVES 14, PALMYRA 0.

The Reserve team also won its first victory on Saturday at Lebanon, defeating Palmyra A. C., 14-0, in an interesting contest. The Scrubs are developing a fast eleven, and did not meet with serious opposition. Our men were outweighed, but were in much better shape than their opponents, and Lebanon Valley's goal was never in danger. Early in the game Goodyear scored our first touchdown and Peiffer kicked the goal. The second touchdown was scored by Peiffer after a spectacular 65 yard run, and he again kicked the goal.

The whole Reserve team showed much improvement in working together, due to a great extent to the fine generalship of Captain Rupp, a player who is developing rapidly.

EFFICIENCY.

A question of great agitation and no less importance in the modern day is that efficiency, "What does it constitute?" "Where is it found?" "What degree of perfection is necessary to be classed as such?" "What steps necessary to acquire it."

Let us first look into the student life and examine the steps necessary for efficiency in later life. Here we meet two extremes—the one, too much concentration and narrowing in study; the other, total abstinence of all appearances of educational work. The time when it was thought that a student should confine his work only on one branch of development, should stay at that and do nothing else has long ago passed by and should almost be covered by its own ruins and debris. The consequent narrowness of the victim of such a life and preparation is evident in many of the walks and "walkers" of life. The writer does not mean to be too pessimistic, nor yet too optimistic; what he is trying to strike is the happy medium between the two extremes. All of us should have a definite plan for our life and should aim at it; but, with it all, we must bear in mind that the broader the foundation, the more substantial the building; the more narrow the base, the greater the chances of being overthrown and trod upon by a "huskier" opponent and competitor in life. Every student should put ample time upon the preparation of his or her lesson, time enough to become "master of every daily situation;" but, at the same time, remember that the physical side also needs exercise and recreation. The social side, too, needs its course of development. Poor, and to be pitied, indeed, is he who finds no pleasure in conversing with his fellowman, in exchanging vim for vim, plan for plan, and custom for custom as one excels the other in adequacy. At the same time, the student is given privilege to hear men who are out in actual and vital touch with life and its problems, who have formulated these problems and reduced them to principals with laws governing their operations,—all, in short, that is necessary for the "beginner in life" and these he should not fail to hear and absorb.

Now, then, what degree of perfection is necessary to be called efficient? This depends in a measure upon the line of work, but mostly upon the standards of the highest competitors. As stated, it is no longer sufficient for the electrical engineer to be merely an electrician, he must also be a mathematician and shrewd politician and a past accomplice in every affair of high rank in his community. In order to accomplish this, only common sense teaches us that broad preparation is necessary, with also some specialization.

STEADY AND STICK.

A rush is good in its place lad,
But not at the start, I say,
For life's a very long race, lad,
And never was won that way.
It's the stay that tells—the stay, boy,
And the heart that never says die;
A spurt may do, with the goal in view,
But steady's the word, say I;
Steady's the word that wins, lad,
Grit and sturdy grain;
It's sticking to it will carry you thru' it,
Roll up your sleeves again!

Oh! Snap is a very good cur, lad,
To frighten the tramps I trow,
But Holdfast sticks like a burr, lad—
Brave Holdfast never lets go.
And Clever's a pretty nag, boy,
But stumbles and shies, they say;
So steady I count, the safer mount
To carry you all the way.

The iron bar will smile, lad,
At straining muscle and thew,
But the patient teeth of the file, lad,
I warrant will gnaw it thru.
A snap may come to the end, boy,
And a bout of might and main,
But Steady and Stick must do the trick,—
Roll up your sleeves again!

JUNIOR HIKE.

Last Tuesday evening, feeling the need of some diversion from too hard work and also with a desire to maintain the reputation established when they were underclassmen, the Juniors hiked to a beautiful spot near the Mt. Gretna road, several miles from town.

The class, under the chaperonage of Profs. Seaman and Seltzer, was present almost to a man, and hiking conditions were ideal, the moon being of the kind that can only be mentioned as indescribable.

After several old-fashioned games the girls, (this being their party) produced a profusion of good things to eat. "Doggies," peaches, pretzels, etc. The "doggies" were roasted over the fire around which later everyone gathered to take part in an impromptu program. There were songs by Mr. Beidel, a reading by Miss Harris, a political debate by Messrs. Foltz and Snoke, and various impersonations of important characters, the names of whom are censored.

They returned about eleven o'clock and after several rousing yells quietly sought their abodes, happy in the thought of an evening well spent.

took the ball from them on downs and Swartz kicked from under the shadow of our goal posts, but at this point McGuckin, Villanova's star kicker, returned the ball with his compliments—over the goal posts for a field goal, and shortly afterward the game was over.

The final score, 13-3 does not do justice to the fine playing of Lebanon Valley. We crossed the Villanova goal line two more times during the first half, but in the one instance Adams was called out of bounds, and in the other Loomis was off-side when Jaeger took the ball over. Individually and as a team the boys played a superb game. Loomis was at his best, as were also the two ends, Morrison and Adams, and Lebanon Valley can well be proud of its present football team.

SOPHOMORE HIKE.

One of the most enjoyable events of this year's social activities was the Sophomore hike held on Wednesday night. About fifty members of the Class of '19 chaperoned by Professors Edna Seaman and Marion Hempt left South Hall for a moonlight party. Never did the moon shine more graciously upon L. V.'s merry-makers as it did that night. Everyone knowing that they were released from at least one night of study did their best to make the evening a jolly one.

When the hikers arrived at the heart of the forest of Bachman's woods two roaring fires were built which added jest and real life to the moonlight feed. When the commissary department arrived and opened their packages the regulation Lebanon Valley College hiker's rations, were distributed among the crowd. Never were better frankforts or sweeter marshmallows eaten, even if some rivalry did exist among the Sophs to see who were the best cooks.

The later part of the evening was spent most enjoyably in playing games around the camp fire. "And, therefore, I hope it will not be thought disrespectful if I speak forth my sentiments freely and without reserve," and say that the Sophomore hike was the best ever.

Tennis Captain Elected

E. Harold White was elected tennis captain for this coming year by the tennis team. This game has always been one of Lebanon Valley's weak sports, but efforts will be made this coming spring to develop a team which will be qualified to cope successfully with such colleges as Dickenson and Gettysburg. There is fine tennis material at Lebanon Valley, and diligent practice should work wonders. Therefore, let's boost this sport as Lebanon Valley is learning to boost all her activities, and get together for a GREATER LEBANON VALLEY.

Y. M. C. A.

At the regular Sunday afternoon meeting the reports of the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Eagles Mere were given. The meeting was in charge of Mr. Wm. Martin. The first report was given by Mr. Walter Deibler, who gave a general outline of the conference, explaining the educational part, the surroundings of the place at which the conference was held and the amusements provided for those in attendance. Mr. Martin took up the missionary phase, telling how students from foreign countries appeal to America for more workers. The speaker also showed the benefit the foreign students derive from attending these conventions in this country; they get their true ideas of America in this way. The last speaker, Mr. Rufus Lefever, told of the many advantages to be derived from attending these conventions. He urged the local Y. M. C. A. to send as many delegates to the convention as they possibly could. It is the aim of the organization to send fifteen delegates to Eagles' Mere next summer.

VOLUNTARY BIBLE STUDY.

The Bible Study Committee of the Y. M. C. A. has arranged for three courses of study for the coming year. First year students will take up "Student Standards of Action." Those students who took this course last year will study "A Life at Its Best." Seniors and those who have completed these former courses will study "Social Principles of Jesus." These classes will be divided into groups of ten to twelve men and will meet some time during the week for thirty minutes. All students are urged to join one of these classes. The good derived will be invaluable. If you have not been approached on this matter see William Martin for further information.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. had an interesting meeting on Sunday afternoon under the leadership of Miss Louisa Williams. Miss Frankie Kline favored the association with a vocal solo. The leader spoke of some of the evils existing here at school on our campus. It is the work of the Y. W. C. A. to change these conditions. "The Association Monthly" gives a few helpful remarks to those who belong to the association: "To belong is to be possessed by the purpose of an organization, to understand it, to give yourself to it, to sacrifice for it, to work shoulder to shoulder with others in its support, to find in it a steadying loyalty for every day. To belong to an organization is to have it change you, stamp its mint mark on you, and through you change the world in which you live."

What one lives in his invisible thought world he is continually actualizing in his visible material world. If he would have any conditions different in the latter he must make the necessary change in the former.

Lebanon Valley Ties Lehigh

Lebanon Valley held Lehigh to a tie score Saturday in a bitterly fought contest, each scoring three points by the field goal route. It was a great victory for our eleven, for victory it must be considered, and showed that Captain Mackert's team is by far the best that ever represented Lebanon Valley. "Nixie" played a wonderful game, one of the best games of his career, but in doing so injured his knee. However, he has the assurance of a physician that he will be able to play the Lafayette game next Saturday.

Lebanon Valley played a great game, while Lehigh showed a reversal of form. The Brown and White men fumbled atrociously and gave a mighty poor exhibition of forward passing.

Lebanon Valley ends performed brilliantly in ground gaining. For two periods the ball surged up and down the field, neither side getting in the danger zones. However, Mackert, of Lebanon, twice tried a place-ment goal from long distance, but failed. At the very start of the third period Lehigh failed in a great opportunity to score a touchdown. Brunner had kicked off to Rupp and on the first lineup Lebanon Valley attempted a forward pass. A Lehigh man intercepted the pass and carried the ball to the five-yard line.

FRIDAY EVENING MUSICAL CONCERTS

A series of five extraordinary musical events will be given by the most distinguished of world-famous artists, on different Friday evenings thru out the year, at the Orpheum Theatre, Harrisburg, Pa.

The first of these series will be Nov. 3rd, by Mme. Johanna Gadski, Prima Donna Soprano, from the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. The present season finds Mme. Gadski at the pinnacle toward which she has moved steadily and surely since the beginning of her public career—the acknowledged queen of lyric and dramatic song.

An obvious consequence of Mme. Gadski's ever-increasing popularity in opera is the limitation it places on her availability for concert—a field in which she is held in even higher esteem.

The price for the course is $10 and for single concert 75 cents to $2.50. For further information see Prof. Sheldon.

Inspiring Address By Pres. Bryan of Colgate University

President Bryan, of Colgate University, visited Lebanon Valley on Friday morning and gave to the students a message full of inspiration and good advice. He also brought greetings from the University which he represents. In his talk he spoke of the many perils confronting young men and women attending institutions of higher learning, and pointed out that they have many perils that are characteristic of student life alone. Among the many he emphasized four especially.

First, the student through continual "Getting without Giving," is too apt to allow himself to get into the habit of expecting always to receive the blessings of life, and to give little if anything in return.

Next, he showed that the student can form the habit of falling into, what he pleased to call, "The Lock Step." He explained how one may follow too closely the daily routine of lessons to such extent that they lose the broadening effect that college life should really give.

The third peril about which Mr. Bryan spoke was the one caused by "Segregation." As a student body we live in a world that is vastly different from the one which we left, and also from the one which we will enter on leaving school. Four years of such segregation, if we are not careful, may make us incompetent to go out into the world in which we will have our life's work to perform.

Because a student's work is almost entirely intellectual, Mr. Bryan saw here the fourth peril of college life. He advised against disarding any proposition just because we could not comprehend it. His illustration on this point was especially effective. He closed by saying that his constant prayer was, that we may not fall victims to any of these perils.

We also had present with us on Friday morning, Prof. E. M. Balsbaugh, '01, now Supervisor of the Lebanon Schools; Rev. Daugherty, pastor of Trinity U. B. Church, in Lebanon; and Mr. Hiram Steinmetz, Alumnus and Friend of the College.

STUDENTS ATTEND INSTITUTE.

The students of Lebanon Valley College had the pleasure of attending the Wednesday sessions of the Lebanon County Institute last week. The speakers of the day were Dr. Griggs and Dr. Bryon, President of Colgate University. To have heard these men speak was a privilege which well repaid the students for the loss of a day's work in the classroom.

Reserves Win One and Lose One

The Reserves won from the Pennsylvania Railroad Y. M. C. A. football team of Bellwood on the college field Saturday afternoon, 27 to 0. During the first half of the game the Scrubs had things all their own way, and scored three successive touchdowns by Zeigler, Snavelly, and Rupp, but after Goodyear's touchdown in the second half the visitors strengthened considerably and at one time nearly scored.

The contest was fast and interesting throughout, and marked by brilliant line plunges and end runs. Pickens was the best ground gainer in the visiting team's backfield; he, alone, could make any headway toward the Scrub goal line. Captain Rupp, Snavelly, and Goodyear played consistently for the Reserves, and although there were weak spots at times, our boys played well enough to justly earn their clean-cut victory. It might be added that the superb tackling of Kickline was a feature.

INDIANS DEFEAT RESERVES.

The Carlisle Indians sprung a surprise on the athletic world last Tuesday by reappearing on the gridiron and decisively defeating the Lebanon Valley Reserves 20 to 6. The Reserves made a very creditable showing when we take into consideration that they had for opponents the same team which will play our Varsity later in the season.

Carlisle scored six points in the first period, seven in the second and seven in the third. Rupp scored a touchdown for the Reserves in the third quarter. The game was quietly planned, and few except the enthusi-

EDITORIAL.

One of the numerous activities of the Y. M. C. A. in the colleges of North America today is the organizing of the students of their respective institutions into groups of men, varying in number, in order to study more fully the teachings of the Bible and its wonderful characters. This plan of Bible study has developed to such an extent that a most astonishing majority of the American colleges have adopted it in some form or other. The importance, advantages and benefits of such a course of Bible study are very manifest. In the first place, let it be remembered that it is a strategic time of a individual's life when he is in college. Therefore how concerned we ought to be in having this life impressed with the Ethical and religious truths of the Bible. Secondly, a study of the Bible in a round table discussion will allow each individual to state his own interpretation of the subject under discussion; which of course will be modified by the opinions and convictions of the other members of the group. Thus he will be freed from narrowness and bigotry in his interpretation of vital moral truths. Moreover, a man once stating his convictions before a group of his fellow students will be more liable to carry out his stated principle in his every day life. Thirdly, a general discussion by all the men will free the group from the dogmatism of the teacher. Thus individuality in the interpretation of moral issues will be developed. Fourthly and lastly, many students receive such impressions that later lead them into accepting Christ as their personal Savior.

This is no new movement. There were Bible study groups in this college about a decade ago; and, could we call the roll of those who participated in this work we would be sure to hear some convincing testimonies concerning Bible study. Let us help the Y. M. C. A. then in their noble efforts to re-establish this beneficial institution. Other colleges have it and some have as their aim 100 per cent. of the students in Bible study. Fellows, should Lebanon Valley be content to lead in some things and be satisfied to be ancient and behind time in other important matters? No, we cannot believe that you look at such matters in such a light and we therefore invite the enthusiastic co-operation of all in this move forward.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The scope of meaning of the phrase public opinion is too vast to enable a proper definition of the phrase to be employed in this short space. Public opinion usually is aroused through individuals influencing other people and also through the agency of the public press.

Recently the entire student body was stirred to the extreme by a small notice that appeared upon one of our bulletin boards. This little notice surely had a ponderous meaning, when we consider that the entire student body simultaneously expressed itself in an unprecedented manner. The aroused spirit spread through the student body like wild fire, instead of following the usual course of the public press. The discussion of the little notice of four lines was upon every student's lips. When students have arrived at the period of college life they are able to realize not only the contradiction of such a policy to the democratic ideals of free speech, but also the harmful influence of such curtailment as it is proposed to be applied here at Lebanon Valley.

The point of this editorial is this: That public opinion was here so singularly aroused by a small notice, that we must look deeper into the full meaning of the cause for this excited strain under which the student body simultaneously found itself.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE

On Tuesday evening the Democratic men of College met in Prof. Wanner's room for the purpose of effecting an organization preliminary to becoming affiliated with the Wilson College Club of America. This club is a national organization, being represented by practically every college in the country.

The attendance was large and though no outside speakers were present much enthusiasm was shown, nearly every man present expressing his loyalty to President Wilson by a few remarks.

It was the decision of the meeting to procure all of the campaign literature possible and also to secure various prominent men to address the meetings in the future.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Geo. H. DeHuff; 1st Vice-President, Hubert R. Snoke; 2nd Vice President, Guyer; Secretary, Harry W. Katerman. Let every Wilson man in college become a member of this organization. The only requirement for membership being loyalty to the man who has so successfully steered the ship of state through the troublous waters of the past four years.

The following officers were installed last Friday night in the Philokosmian Literary Society: President, Harold Risser; Vice President, Chas. W. Gemmill; Recording Secretary, Jno. L. Berger; Corresponding Secretary, Edgar C. Hastings; Chaplain, Rufus Lefever; Critic, David R. Fink; Pianist, John Horn; Janitor, Benj. P. Baker; 1st Assistant Janitor, Frank Butler; 2nd Assistant Janitor, Jno. I. Kretzinger.

Three times bucking attempts failed to gain for Lehigh and Chenoweth's forward pass grounded. When the ball was brought out to the 20-yard line, Mackert fumbled to Tate, again unable to gain. Brunner tried a drop kick, but failed.

The fourth period had been in progress two minutes when Brunner sent the ball between the bars for a pretty field goal from the 35-yard line. It looked as though the game would end in a slim victory for Lehigh, but about five minutes before time was up, Loomis intercepted a forward pass on Lehigh's 38-yard line. Mackert then dropped back and from the 43-yard line sent over a beautiful placement goal. A few moments later Mackert made a desperate effort to kick another placement goal from the 47-yard line, but the ball was blocked and the game ended with the ball near the middle of the field.

In all Lehigh tried twenty-five forward passes, four working. Seven times Lehigh fumbled. Ten times Lebanon Valley tried the forward pass, none succeeding. Outstanding was the fine line work of Johnson, Good and Tate, for Lehigh, and Morson, Goff, Rupp and Mackert for Lebanon Valley.

ADELPHIA CONCERT COMPANY RENDERED FINE PROGRAM.

Last Wednesday evening was rendered the first and one of the best Star Course numbers on the local platform. From the start to the finish, the quality of music was the very best, i. e. quoting authorities who are in a position to know, and judging from the applause following the rendition of each number requiring encores almost invariably. Although the majority of the selections were already used on the local stage, and therefore familiar to almost everyone, the masterly rendition caused special attention and consequent appreciation.

Please do not forget the next number which will be a lecture by Hon. George Bradford, on Wednesday night, Nov. 1. Season tickets are still for sale at one dollar each which makes the four remaining numbers available for less than the aggregate sum of single admissions.

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. although not largely attended was a very interesting one. The leader, Mr. Edwin Zeigler, gave a very interesting talk on "Service." He showed the usefulness of the organization along different lines. The speaker argued strongly for the Bible Study Course which is being given this year and urged all to take up the course, that it would be most helpful to all who took it. The Weidler Missionary Fund was given considerable discussion, the speaker asking all to do everything they can for the support of the fund. The meeting was a very interesting one, but the attendance might have been a great deal better. Let us all attend these meetings, whenever we can possibly do so, and we will derive much good from them.

ALUMNI.

John Lehman, '11, who has been employed in the Chemistry Department of the Semet Solvay Company, near Harrisburg, since his graduation, has recently been transferred to Detroit, where he will work in the Cyanide Department of the same company.

On Wednesday evening, August 23, Edna Grace Landis, ex-Conservatory student, became the wife of Gideon Light Blouch, '15. The beautiful ring ceremony, performed by Prof. A. E. Shroyer of the Department of Greek, culminated another of Lebanon Valley's many romances. Mr. Blouch met his bride at Lebanon Valley several years ago, when both were students in the institution.

Miss Ruth Landis, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Edward H. Smith, '14, was best man.

A Lebanon Valley atmosphere prevailed throughout, for besides the contracting parties, best man and officiating clergyman, another former Lebanon Valley student was present in the person of Mrs. C. V. Clippinger, a sister of the bride and a classmate of Prof. Shroyer. Her marriage to Mr. C. V. Clippinger, '99, some years ago was the result of a college romance.

Mr. and Mrs. Blouch will reside in Freeport, Illinois, where Mr. Blouch will teach.

The "News" joins the many friends of the couple in extending congratulations and best wishes.

The subject for discussion in Y. W. C. A. on Sunday, October 22nd, was, "The Immigration Problem of the Young Woman's Christian Association," led by Edna M. Weidler. She spoke of the rapid growth of immigration in our country and asked us if we realized what our share in the problem of immigration really is. It was shown that we must manifest toward these girls the spirit of comradeship. We learned what it means to the immigrant girl to leave her native country and conditions with which she is familiar and how she must adjust herself to new conditions and adapt herself to her environment. The Association was very much pleased with the solo by Miss Oyer.

Varsity Loses to Lafayette

Lafayette triumphed over Lebanon Valley on the gridiron at Easton Saturday, 27 to 14. The game started well for us. Captain Taylor, of Lafayette, fumbled the first punt on the 20-yard line, and Lebanon Valley recovered. From this vantage point Rupp carried the ball over the goal, and scored before Lafayette had time to collect its senses, but it seems that they came to life soon after, for during the rest of the game our opponents played better football than they have done before this season.

Two successful forward passes, both thrown by Weldon and received by Taylor and Pardee, respectively, gave the impetus for the touchdown which tied the score. A few minutes later Weldon threw a pass over the line to Captain Taylor, and Lafayette assumed the lead, which was not relinquished for the rest of the game.

Lafayette scored twice in the last period, one, by Taylor on a line plunge, and the other a pass to Ellis as he stood right on the goal line between the posts. In the last few moments of play a long pass, Keating to Swartz, gave Keating a chance to score our second touchdown of the game.

In fairness to our team it must be stated that Captain Mackert was unhardly expect to show our full strength, but with a rest of two weeks before the next hard game on the schedule Lebanon Valley should make a fine showing the rest of the season.

Reserves Win From Bucknell Reserves

The Lebanon Valley College Reserves defeated the Bucknell University Reserves Saturday on the college gridiron, 21 to 0. The game, notwithstanding the decisive score, was the most interesting that has been played here this year.

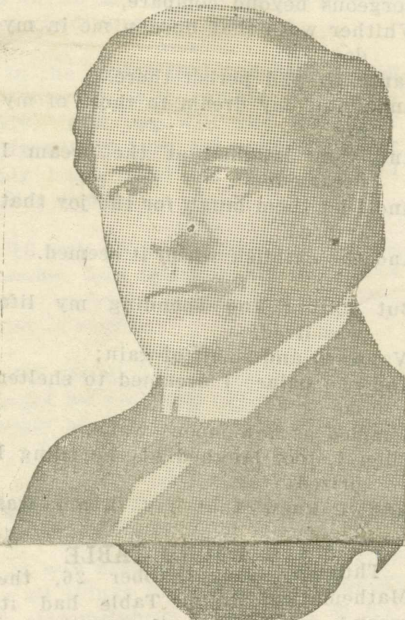

As usual, the Reserves started in whirl-wind style, and early in the first quarter, Snader, by a brilliant run, scored a touchdown. During the second quarter things went even better for Lebanon Valley and two touchdowns were scored, by Zeigler and Haines respectively. Now, in quarter number three we should have scored three touchdowns, and so on,

Second Number of Star Course

Plan your work so that you can conscientiously take tomorrow night off and hear Chancellor George H. Bradford lecture on "Suncrowned Manhood." He has a message for you.

Avoid the peril to which Dr. Bryon referred as, "The Lock Step." A lecture is just as essential in your educational development as any of the special branches of study that may be included on your daily schedule.

CHANCELLOR BRADFORD.

Mr. Bradford is especially qualified to lecture to an audience made up largely of students because he has spent practically his whole life studying the problem of education. After having spent eighteen years as a University Student and University Chancellor, he entered the University of the Universe, where he attempts to translate Life instead of Latin. He says that he would rather know men than trees; and while it is a great thing to associate twenty-five adjectives with the noun in Greek, and twenty-five adverbs with the verb in Hebrew, it is a bigger thing to associate fifty men with the task of making a community better.

Again let me request you to come out tomorrow night and avail yourself of this opportunity of hearing Mr. Bradford lecture.

We cannot fail if we live always in the brave and cheerful attitude of mind. He alone fails who gives up and lies down.

Annual Philo. Hallowe'en Party

Saturday night was "Philo Night" it being the occasion of the annual Hallowe'en Party given by the Philokosmian Literary Society.

The crowd gathered in Engle Hall at 7 p. m. and were led (whither, they knew not) by two hobgoblins from the lower regions. After many devious turns and twists they stopped at the hall above the Hippodrome theater which was decorated with cornfodder, pumpkins and pennants.

Upon entering everyone was given a card bearing the name of some reptile. In this manner all present were divided into groups and after the Grand March each one sought his or her place in their respective groups.

All of the games of the evening were carried on from this group system, representatives from each group competing in apple bobbing contests, peanut races and other old-fashioned Hallowe'en celebrations.

Each group was represented, however, as a whole in one feature of the entertainment, namely the refreshments. These consisted of pumpkin pies, doughnuts, cider and apples, and were heartily enjoyed by all.

GLEE CLUB STARTS WORK FOR SEASON

Last Wednesday night saw the beginning of the rehearsal season of the Lebanon Valley College Men's Glee Club. The tryouts which were held the week before marked the discovery of quite a bit of musical talent both among those who were here other years, but for some reason had not taken the opportunity of coming out to try for the club, and those who are here for their first year. The tryouts were fairly well attended, but for some reason there was not as much competition for the various positions as there was some other years.

Half of this year's club will be new men, the club having lost twelve of last year's men either by graduation or because the fellows have not returned to school this year.

The club this year will consist of the same number of men as last year, twenty-four, besides the reader and accompanist. This number unpleasant experience of defeat, at the hands of Lafayette. We manifested our pleasure over their victories, by a celebration that did honor to the men and credit to ourselves. In what manner are we going to accept defeat? Are we going to sit down and weep and wail and bemoan our hard luck because things go wrong? This would possibly be the easiest and most natural thing to do, but what would it accomplish? Would it not be better to learn the lesson that defeat has to teach? A defeat is just as truly a necessary element of life as a victory, and the team, as well as the individual, who can gracefully accept reverses, and stand up under their weight, is to be commended for having learned one of life's greatest lessons.

Victory is, in itself, a buoyant and propelling force which keeps us above water and drives us on towards future achievements. In its absence we must find some other force to supply in its place. Where is the team going to get the necessary inspiration to make this season a success, unless thru the student body? Show them, that although they did lose last Saturday's game, they are still your team.

Five more games remain on the schedule. Do you realize to what extent the outcome of these games depends on you?

If last Monday's bon fire was the extent of your enthusiasm; if you spent all your "Pep" in this one night of celebration, then it was of no more avail than a beautiful soap bubble which, when it bursts, is nothing.

Last year for one week and a half before the Bucknell game, a banner containing "On To Bucknell" was displayed in a conspicuous place. There was nothing noisy about this banner but its psychological effect evidenced itself in the results of the Thanksgiving game.

Why not adopt a similar slogan now which will include St. Josephs, Muhlenburg, Susquehanna, The Indians and Bucknell. Let us get all these games.

Place enough confidence in your team to believe that they will. Then let your confidence manifest itself in some practical way.

DEFEAT.

I dreamed of a palace I might build,
Gorgeous beyond compare,
Whither woes that burden me in my days

Languish and perish there.
And I told my dream to those of my kin

And they laughed at the dream I dreamed;

And I let them laugh for the joy that it bred

And the childish whim it seemed.

But toiling and spending my life was lived,

Wayward and small of gain;

And the palace I dreamed to shelter me

Dimmed as new moons wane.

Then I, too, laughed at the thing I prized

MATH ROUND TABLE

Thursday eve, October 26, the Mathematical Round Table had its second meeting of the year. As usual, the program was very interesting. The first number, "Negative Numbers" by U. U. McCourt was so well prepared and rendered that Professor Lehman, a life-long student of mathematics, declared he never knew that there was so much to negative number. The second number, "Resolved that the metric system should be established in U. S." was ably discussed by Miss Miller. "Declination" by Mr. Havensstock, was interesting as well as humorous and instructive.

The next meeting will be held Nov. 21 which all members are urged to attend and to which all visitors are welcome.

makes a very good, well-balanced club, one that can produce a great variety of numbers in their program.

At the beginning of the school year a new Constitution and set of By-Laws was formulated. This will put the Club on a strictly business like basis and will enable better management at all times.

It is the intention of the Club to start the concert season soon after the holidays. The business manager is hard at work arranging the very best possible schedule of concerts for the boys, giving them an opportunity of having some fine trips.

Prof. Sheldon who is always so very successful in directing the Club will again have charge, and it is needless to say that the fellows will be trained up to the minute.

The personnel of the Club this year is:

First Tenors: Gregory, Pres.; Diebler, Treas.; Ramsey, Sec.; Greer; Hallman; Jackowick. Second Tenors: Katerman; Fulford; Herring; M. Morrison; Thornton; Haines. First Bass: Walters. Vice Pres.: Zeigler; Price; M. Wingerd; Durborow; Ehrhart. Second Bass: Keim, Bus. Mgr.; Hilbert; Stumbaugh; A. Long; A. Wingerd; Geyer. Accompanist, R. Ported Campbell.

Y. M. C. A.

"A Double Life" was the topic which proved of much interest to those who attended the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Mr. Paul Shannon's presentation of this subject was masterful to say the least. His concrete examples were each and altogether different kind of life among the people outside was held up to the hearers for inspection. The inevitable end of such living can be readily figured out. Many of the boys enjoyed this meeting but the attendance ought to be much better.

The things that come into our hands come not for the purpose of being possessed, as we say, much less for the purpose of being hoarded. We are stewards merely, and as stewards we shall be held accountable for the way we use whatever is entrusted to us.

ALUMNI NOTES

Mrs. Edgar Landis, nee Dubble, of the class of '15, was a visitor at the school Friday afternoon.

J. K. Hollinger, '16, paid a visit to the school on Saturday last.

Mary Bergdoll, '16, is a teacher in the schools of Robeson, Berks Co.

Robert E. Hartz, '16, is filling a position in one of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Y. M. C. A.'s.

Addie M. Snyder, '16, is teaching in the Annville High School.

Margaret Myers, '16, is teaching in the schools of Altoona.

George A. Williams, '12, attended the Lafayette game at Easton on Saturday.

By example and not by precept. By doing, not by professing. There is no contagion equal to the contagion of life. Whatever we sow that shall we also reap, and each thing sown produces of its kind.

We invite what we fear, the same as, by a different attitude of mind, we invite and attract the influences and conditions we desire.

In the degree that you keep young in thought will remain young in body. And you will find that your body will in turn aid your mind, for body helps mind the same as mind builds body.

To get up immediately when we stumble, face again to the light, and travel on without wasting even a moment in regret.

All things are for a purpose, all should be used and enjoyed; but all should be rightly used that they may be fully enjoyed.

The great law of the drawing power of the mind which says that

It was Emerson who said: "Thus do all things preach the indifference of circumstances. The man is all"—and was he not right?

To take a cheerful, hopeful, optimistic, never-down-in-the-mouth, but courage-always-up attitude of mind, is to set in, and to keep in continual operation, subtle, silent forces that are working along the lines we are going and that open the way for us to arrive.

Lebanon Valley Swamps St. Josephs

In a driving rain, Lebanon Valley outclassed St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia on Annville Field, 71 to 0. As had been anticipated, the game was no more than practice for the Varsity, and the first string men were all taken out of the game at the end of the first half, with a few exceptions. Gummy Wenrick has not missed a moment's play since he came to Lebanon Valley and he refused to be taken from the game.

Rupp started the scoring early in the first quarter with a touchdown thru the line, and then Keating scored three successive touchdowns, one of them after a 60-yard run. Immediately afterward Jaeger, after a long run, scored, and again Keating carried the pigskin over the line for his fourth touchdown in the half.

The second half proved to be a repetition of the first, altho most of the regular men had been replaced by substitutes. Keating started the scoring for the college with another touchdown, and then Coach Guyer removed this man from the game for the Association could not afford to buy him another pair of shoes. Adams was sent in at halfback and he celebrated by scoring, and Atticks thought he ought to share in the general prosperity, for he repeated the performance. Haines played a fine game, and while in the game only a short time, scored two touchdowns, one of them after he had intercepted a forward pass.

Lebanon Valley repeatedly tried forward passes, but the slippery ball

CHANCELLOR GEORGE BRADFORD LECTURES

One of the strongest lectures ever given from the local platform was that of "The Destiny of America" by Chancellor George H. Bradford. From the very beginning to the end this orator held his audience spellbound with logic and facts which are prevalent in the U. S. today. In this man we again have evidenced the fact that "riches cannot buy knowledge and wisdom"; for as explicitly stated in his lecture, he began with the humblest station in life and with a desire for an education, advanced to his present distinguished stage.

As a speaker, Mr. Bradford was clear and forceful. His arguments were strong and persuasive, backed and developed by logic and personal experience. To hear him, was to believe him and wish to hear him more.

Hughes Wins In Straw Ballot Election

Ever since the organization of the two Political Clubs at Lebanon Valley College, the two room-mates, "Cotton" DeHuff and "Hal" White have been in continual disagreement as to the sentiment of the student body in regards to the coming Presidential Election. To settle this dispute and to get some definite idea of how matters really stood, the College News Staff held a "Straw Ballot Election" on Friday night. The right of suffrage was extended to all and a fair percentage of our fair Co-eds took part.

The following are the results:—

RESERVES WIN FROM SCHUYLKILL

The Lebanon Valley Reserves won a hardfought game from Schuylkill Seminary at Reading Saturday, 13 to 0. Altho many of the regular men were kept at home by Coach Guyer in order to give them a tryout against, the team played their usual sterling game, and the strong Reading team had to acknowledge defeat at their hands.

Peiffer, Snader and Hummel were injured, but all three of them will probably be back in the game this week.

Zeigler started the scoring in the first quarter by a plunge thru the line. The Reserves scored their final touchdown in the third quarter when Snavelly took the pigskin over the goal line, after it had been advanced to within a few yards of the line by Baines.

Baines played one of his first games Saturday, and his work was one of the features of the contest. The strength of our second team in itself prophesies a strong Varsity for next fall. Line-up:

Touchdowns — Zeigler, Snavelly. Goal from touchdown, Zeigler. Substitutes—for Lebanon Valley, Spielman for Isaacs; Snader for Wine; Hummel for Peiffer; Baines for Snader. Referee—Posey.

JOINT SESSION OF THE Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A.

The joint meeting of the two Christian Associations held in the Assembly room of the Library on Sunday afternoon was a very interesting one, and was attended by a goodly number. Mr. Zeigler, pres. of the Y. M. C. A. presided very ably at the meeting.

After a rousing song service, followed by scripture reading and prayer, the speaker of the afternoon was introduced. Miss Hoffman, of Lebanon, Field Secretary of the County Sunday School Association, gave a very interesting and practical address. The speaker discussed the Sunday school work and ways of helping this work. Pennsylvania is noted for some things, some good and some not so good. Statistics show that the United States is the foremost Sunday school country in the world and that Pennsylvania is the leading state in this country in this work, therefore, Pennsylvania is the greatest Sunday School state in the world. Lebanon county is in the front line of activity which is shown by the fact that this county has been a Front Line County for some years. But there can be improvements. Some time ago, students at Selinsgrove conducted a campaign among the Sunday Schools of Union County with marked re-

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

Some years back in the History of the College News, when the staff had a room which they could call their own, there was attached to the outside of the door of that room, a box in which could be deposited any item of news or any contribution of opinions that the students wished to see printed in the college weekly. For reasons unknown to the present editor, the use of this box was discontinued, with the lamentable result that the "News" lost much of its one time interest. Of course there has been a solicitous notice printed at the head of this column week after week, inviting contributions from students and Alumnae, but either due to the modesty of the student body as a whole, or their utter lack of interest, this request has brought meager results. At the same time there has been a lot of harsh criticism and just plain knocking from every angle, because the paper has seemingly failed to fulfill the mission for which it was founded.

The College News does not belong to the list of individuals whose names compose the staff. It is your paper. To knock it is to knock yourself.

You cannot help realize and appreciate the fact, that it is an impossibility for the limited number on the "News" staff, to note and record every item of interest that takes place at Lebanon Valley College. There are daily happenings, of both humorous and serious natures, in the class room, dining hall, and on the campus, that come to the notice of only a few, but, if printed in our college weekly, would be of interest to all. Also, the many activities of college life causes diversity of opinions and often results in helpful discussions in which only a few take part, but in which there is a general interest.

Why not use this publication as a medium in which to express your sentiments on the various activities of common interest, to give to all the joke or item of news which only you and a few others may have originally heard.

For your convenience the College News contribution box will again be enlisted into active service. For the present it will be placed in the Registrar's office in the Administration Building. Please co-operate with the staff by placing therein any material that you believe to be of common interest and thus make the College News a more representative publication of Lebanon Valley College.

sults. The leaders of Lebanon county wish to follow this plan and are endeavoring to send groups of students from the two colleges of this county to visit the different Sunday Schools, and at the same time advertise the convention to be held in Annville, in February. The speaker urged all who have not yet pledged their aid during this campaign to do so, stating that Sunday Schools always appreciate visitors and especially students. Quite a number of our students have already promised their assistance, but there may be some who have not.

Help the work along, and let us all do our share in this College students' campaign, not only for our own welfare and good, but for the results which we hope will come through our efforts.

Lebanon Valley 6; Muhlenburg 0

Lebanon Valley triumphed again on the gridiron Saturday at Allentown when the Varsity defeated Muhlenburg 6 to 0 in a game which was creditable to both elevens. There was scoring but once, in the second period, when Dannie Walter by an off-tackle play wriggled thru the Muhlenburg line, and by a 45-yard run scored the only touchdown of the game. Dannie played his best all thru the game, many times breaking thru the opposing line for good gains, and it was only after he had dodged several Red and Gray players that he carried the pigskin over the goal line.

Lebanon Valley time and again tackled brilliantly, intercepted forward passes and stopped all attempts to buck their line, but in spite of that, most of the game was played in our territory. Muhlenburg missed a chance to win by failing to try for field and placement goals, which three or four times seemed easily possible. They probably thought that they could break down the strong defense pitted against them, but only once were we threatened seriously. Early in the game Muhlenburg seemed to suddenly come to life, and started from the middle of the field to make a great drive for a touchdown. In a short time they had made three successive first downs with apparent ease, but then at a critical moment we regained the ball and kicked out of danger.

Both teams put up a stubborn, stonewall defense throughout the entire contest, and this was the cause of much punting. However, Lebanon Valley was not put to any disadvantage because of this, for Keating more than held his own with his opponent in this department. Keating does not try solely for distance in punting, but kicks high, accurate spirals, which give the men plenty of time to run down under them and make the tackle before the ball can be advanced.

Captain Mackert was again in the line, and altho he did not extend himself, his efforts in backing up the line proved time after time a stumbling block in the way of the Muhlenburg backfield. Just once he played fullback on the offense, and after two vain attempts to gain, made his first down on the third try. Mackert did wisely in not exerting himself needlessly, and he should be in perfect condition for the remaining games.

Goff is practically the only injured man as a result of the contest, and

Clio-Kalo First Joint Session

Twice a year the Clios are invited to visit Kalo Hall when a program is given by various members of both societies and the session on Friday evening proved to be a very enjoyable one. The program showed unusual preparation on the part of all participants. Several musical numbers, papers on literary subjects and a sketch provided an evening not soon to be forgotten. Mr. Abram Long's "Vision of the Future" was developed in a most unique way and delivered in a most convincing manner. It had its clever side as well as its sensible side. I wonder how many of us could make class distinction? The hot lunch which was the last event of the evening proved that Kalos were good hosts in that they forgot nothing.

The Recognition Service for new members was held on Sunday afternoon, under the leadership of Miss Katherine Dasher. The new girls were received into the association by the president Miss Ruth Heffelman. Association music was sung, and a duet by Misses Lorenz and Colt was very much enjoyed by the association.

Election Day Foot Ball

VARSITY SUBS 0 ALTOONA INDIANS 7

A Lebanon Valley team, composed of Varsity substitutes and Reserves were defeated by the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. eleven of Altoona on election day 7 to 0. The opponents, popularly known as the Altoona Indians, are one of the strongest elevens in the state and the showing of the Lebanon Valley representatives was gratifying. Our eleven was strengthened by the presence of Chief Wheelock in the backfield, and the game was nearly over before the touchdown was scored. The contest was played before a crowd of four thousand, and there were many exciting moments during the afternoon.

SCRUBS 28 LYKENS 0

A Scrub team, composed of players who did not accompany the Varsity substitutes to Altoona defeated the Lykens football team on election day 28 to 0. The Lebanon Valley team easily outweighed their opponents, and could have made the score more decisive had it been necessary.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

Several weeks ago in announcing the St. Joseph's game, one of the Philadelphia newspapers designated Lebanon Valley as a "big" college. To be sure the term big in this case referred particularly to our football team, and rightfully, too, but has it ever occurred to you what that football team has been compelled to do in order that it should be so called? Did you ever notice that it is out every night, continually working and striving toward perfection and that it is only by this means that it has required bigness.

There is no better slogan for individuals or organizations than "Be Big," but, of course, one must have the correct interpretation of bigness before he will be benefited.

The ways for an individual to be big are many and varied and necessarily have no relations to physical stature since size is only relatively important according to the character of a man. To be always truthful always careful in your speech of others and also in your action toward them; to be fair in everything and with everybody are a few of the more simple methods of being big.

To maul a fellow when no one is looking is as easy in everyday life as it is in a football scrimmage but who can derive any benefit thereby? It is easy enough, though not always done, to engage in cheerful and encouraging rooting for the home team but it seems equally easy to engage in uncomplimentary rooting for the visiting team, one of the littlest actions of which college students are capable and one which would never be repeated if the rooters could once exchange places with the visitors.

Be big by being careful in your choice of companions. By that do not understand that you are to be suspicious of everybody, but remember a man is judged by the company he keeps and be sure you will be benefited by a company before making yourself one of it.

Finally be fair to yourself, do the work given to you. Work half done is a joke on yourself and work dishonestly done is much better undone.

These are only a few of the more simple methods by which a college student may acquire individual figures and consequent bigness for his school. But beware of that superficial bigness which makes a man do things merely because he wishes people to see him perform. Such a man is an object for universal pity and universally it should be given him.

Do not live within yourself, for yourself but try to cultivate the spirit of "Being a Friend to Man."

ASSISTANCE OR DEATH

For the past year various efforts have been made to organize and maintain a college band; but up to the present time the efforts have been very unsatisfactory due to the lack of financial support on the part of the student body. The question resolves itself into this; must the band disorganize and sell its instruments in order to meet its financial obligations? This must surely be done, if assistance is not given immediately.

Each member has already "coughed up" and in addition has been giving his time each week for rehearsals. Is it fair that the members be compelled to give both time and money when it is so little appreciated by the students? If financial aid is not forthcoming the band must dissolve; and YOU alone will be responsible for the dissolution.

SCRUBS LOSE TO PALMYRA

Saturday afternoon the forces of the Scrubs, greatly weakened by the inroads on their number for the Muhlenberg trip, journeyed to Palmyra where they were unfortunately defeated by a score of 19-0.

The Palmyra team has greatly strengthened itself since their defeat by the Scrubs at the beginning of the season, which coupled with the fact that they greatly outweighed our boys easily explains the result.

A loyal crowd of rooters followed the Reserves, some hiking and others going by trolley.

Y. M. C. A.

An unusually large number attended the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Sunday afternoon when Mr. Paul Shettel discussed in a brief and concise manner, "The Way Down and the Way Up." Mr. Shettel's presentation of the facts which lead to Peter's betrayal of Christ and his restoration was masterful. His talk was inspiring thruout, and many were influenced to speak of their experiences in relation to this subject. Some of the points brought out in the discussion were, Peter followed afar off; it is dangerous to Associate With Wicked Companions, and Peter rose thru sincere repentance.

Ozar Thrown By Turner

Jack Ozar lost his bout for the Middleweight Championship of the World in Wrestling, when Joe Turner obtained an arm hold after one hour and forty-seven minutes. The match was held in the Academy of Music in Lebanon, before a packed house, and was largely attended by the male students of Lebanon Valley.

Joe Turner, the present champion, was in the best of condition, and it was well for his title that he was, for Jack took the aggressive early in the bout, and it looked many times as if he had a chance for victory. However, Turner wrigled and twisted out of every dangerous hold, and finally by a Japanese hold, put Jack into a position where he had to give his opponent a fall or have his arm fractured.

The men were about evenly matched in weight and skill, and there was not a dull moment in the entire evening. The match was to be two falls out of three, but Ozar withdrew rather than take any chances with a wrenched arm. He feels that he may be more successful in another try for the championship, and he certainly earned another opportunity to oppose Joe Turner.

Keating one of the Scrubs (?), scored one of the touchdowns. He accompanied the team and had to have a few minutes workout to keep in shape. Altho the Scrubs went into the game with a lineup which they had never used before they played a fine game in every department.

Two big events will take place in Harrisburg's musical life this week. Alma Gluck will be at the Chestnut Street Auditorium on Wednesday evening. Margaret Woodrow Wilson accompanied by Melville Clark on the harp. Mrs. Ross David on the piano and Signor Farbizio on the violin, will be the attraction at the Orpheum on Friday evening. Tickets for either event may be secured from W. W. M'CONEL.

Faith is an invisible and invincible magnet, and attracts to itself whatever it fervently desires and calmly and persistently expects.

We need more gentleness and sympathy and compassion in our common human life. Then we will neither blame nor condemn. Many times the struggles are greater than we can ever know.

We are living the eternal life now as much as we ever will or ever can live it. The only Heaven we will ever have is the one we realise, make and carry with us. We determine always our own condition—Heaven or Hell—here and hereafter.

If our heart goes out in love to all with whom we come in contact, we inspire love and the same ennobling and warming influences of love always return to us from those in whom we inspire them.

Whatever channel the mind sets itself in the life will follow for it is invariably true that the life always follows the thought.

This is the law of prosperity. When apparent adversity comes, be not cast down by it, but make the best of it, and always look forward for better things, for conditions more prosperous.

Varsity Defeats Indians 33-0

Lebanon Valley won its third consecutive victory Saturday on the College field when the Carlisle Indians were defeated, 33 to 0. The game was interesting, and marked by sensational plays which thrilled the spectators.

At the outset of the contest neither side could gain appreciably, and the Indians not only held Lebanon Valley scoreless the first quarter but kept the pigskin in L. V. territory most of the time. Only one extensive gain was made by our team during this period. Haines, a new back, made a fine 30-yard gain and came near going for a touchdown.

In the second half, however, Lebanon Valley came to life in such a manner that the Indians were dazed by our varied attack. Mackert was substituted in the backfield, and soon after crossed the goal line for the first score of the afternoon. Atticks then took a long forward pass from Goff, and after a 20-yard run scored the second touchdown. Keating kicked both goals and the score stood 14 to 0, but the boys were not satisfied with that and before the period and half were over Goff had taken the pigskin over for a third touchdown on a plunge thru the line.

The Indians came back for the second half with renewed energy, and altho Haines made a 25-yard run, Lebanon Valley was again held scoreless. But "Hinkey" had carried the ball close to the Indian goal posts, and very soon after the fourth quarter began Goff scored his second touchdown of the day.

At this moment of the game Lebanon Valley changed its tactics and resorted to nothing but forward passes. Some were successful and some were not, but with only two minutes to play "Bill" Swartz caught a long aerial pass from Keating over the goal line for the last touchdown of the game.

A CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

The Y. W. C. A. is planning to give you a good time at its Annual Christmas Bazaar in the Gym Saturday afternoon and evening, Dec. 16, 1916. There everything will be as in Fairyland. Even Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch will be present. The Domestic Science and Art Departments will be well represented.

Rumor says that even gypsies and magicians will be there to entertain.

Save your pennies, for Y. W. is counting on you.

Girls Begin To Practise Basket Ball

Under the direction of Coach Guyer, the Girls' Basketball Team has started weekly practice in order to prepare for the coming season. There are four members at College who were on last year's quintet, Miss Engle, Miss Bubb, Miss Bachman and Miss Gamble, and this season's team will thus have a promising nucleus around which to build a successful five. Besides these old members however, there is much new material for every position. Among the number who are trying for the team, Miss Rupp looks the most promising, and she will make a strong bid for a varsity position.

The schedule, while not complete, contains some hard games, but from present indications Lebanon Valley will be well represented this winter in this branch of sport.

RALLY DAY

Rally Day was observed last Sunday in the United Brethren Sunday School with an excellent program. Rev. Daugherty had extended an invitation to the students to be present and many responded. The principal address of the morning service was made by W. G. Clippinger, president of Otterbein College, and of the Ohio State Sunday School Association. He spoke on The Three-fold Problem of Religious Education, which was a message of vital importance to us as students of a Christian Institution.

Another feature of the morning program was the music rendered by a large choir and a vocal solo by Miss Gertrude Schmidt.

Mr. C. M. Coover, superintendent, gave a short address of welcome followed by a few remarks by Mr. S. B. Graybill. Mr. Edwin Zeigler then read the Scripture lesson and Professor Shroyer gave a brief outline of Paul's journey from Melita to Rome. The children's procession which came next on the program was quite interesting as well as the next number, a song by Mrs. H. E. Millard's Clear Spring Mission Sunday School.

The attendance was not as large as had been expected but the response for pledges for the coming year was good.

Dr. Clippinger was also present at the evening service and preached a sermon on The Enlargement of Zion.

Dr. Clippinger Speaks in Chapel

We were fortunate in having with us Dr. W. G. Clippinger, who brought us such a helpful message yesterday morning in chapel. He spoke from a wide experience both as a student and administrator and his suggestions were of vital interest.

He placed special emphasis on the necessity of the student measuring his time, correlating his activities, and relating them according to their importance. The fact that the student's life is a busy one led Mr. Clippinger to suggest that they petition for an eight hour law. The curriculum, recreation and business phases of college life were pointed out as filling a large place in our daily programs, but he made an appeal that we do not follow these activities so closely that we neglect the better things of life. We dare not, if we wish to become well balanced young men and women, neglect the highest moral and spiritual development which college life has to offer.

As president of The Otterbein University, he brought greetings from the faculty and student body of that institution to the Faculty and student body of Lebanon Valley College. These greetings were returned by a rising voice of those present at chapel.

In closing, Dr. Clippinger congratulated us on being college students at this age of reconstruction of the industrial, the social and religious orders.

Reserves Win From Indian Reserves

In a game featured by the playing of "Larry" Lerew, the Scrubs defeated the Carlisle Indian Reserves at Carlisle, Saturday, 12 to 7.

Due to the fact that Lebanon Valley was represented by three teams on Saturday it was difficult for Coach Guyer to select two well balanced teams for the Carlisle and Millersville Normal games. Considering this, the boys who went to Carlisle certainly gave a good account of themselves. Our touchdowns were made in the first and fourth periods by Costello and Snavelly, and the Indians scored in the fourth period.

The Indians fought hard thruout the game, keeping our boys on the jump every minute of play. Snavelly made several long gains around the ends, and Costello plunged thru the line consistently. Lerew was the star performer on defense, getting at least half of the tackles.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

The Rally Day Celebration held in our church last Sunday suggests the idea that a Rally Spirit would be a good thing for the college at this time of the year's activities. In fact, it is clear to many of us that there MUST be a rallying of the students in all fields of student activity if this college year is to mean what it ought to mean. There seems to have come among the student body a spirit which prompts many to act as tho the primary object for their coming to college, is to have a jolly good time—and to have it at the expense of curricula work neglected, literary societies unattended, and religious affairs unheeded. This spirit, moreover, manifests itself in the disgraceful and deplorable spirit accorded our athletic teams by the majority of the students. Every student ought to begin to realize—if he does not already—that the college team is the official representative of the institution he attends, and that their achievements will count more toward the advertisement, and exaltation of our college among the college world than anything he as a individual may contribute. The team is your team. So support it as it rightly deserves. When it suffers defeat it ought to be your defeat. When it wins a victory you can count it as your victory.

But even more important than rallying around the team is the fact that there ought to be a rallying to our studies. First and last the college stands for the training of the intellect. The preparation of each day's lessons should be the aim of every person. The opportunities neglected now will be sure to bring seasons of regret and remorse later in life. One can bluff his way thru college but when the bluffer meets the cold world he will encounter an unsurmountable bluff. To have a good time now means to follow the path of least resistance. To insure happiness in the future means the doing of seemingly unpleasant things now. Each one is free to choose.

Besides this there ought to be a rallying to a Literary Society and its activities and to the Christian Associations and their activities. The world will not ask how much one knows but what can one do. Doing has always counted more than knowing and always shall. Everybody can and must learn to do by doing. The literary societies and Christian Associations accomplish this very thing. The "good times" that these organizations hold out to the student are real, lasting and permanent, working good to self and others. To accomplish anything really worth while in life requires a supreme devotion to an high ideal. Why not choose for this ideal a hearty and enthusiastic interest and participation in those things suggested above?

Y. M. C. A.

Ralph L. Sloat, '18, led Y. M. C. A. last Sunday using for his theme, "The Life That Counts The Most, or The Life Worth While." In the beginning he emphasized the fact that the only life really worth while was the one lived in the service of one's fellow men. Two essentials in helping us lead this kind of life are love and prayer. Without the first we will have no motive to prompt us to service, without the latter we cannot be efficient in our service. The benefits of the life that counts are two fold. First, the one who is served is benefited by the act and second by reaction the one rendering the service is blessed. At the conclusion of Mr. Sloat's remarks, he extended an invitation for all present to take part in a discussion on the subject. This request was met by a commendable response. The attendance was fair but not up to the standard that it would be if all the fellows would wake up to the realization that the Y. M. C. A. meetings are not for the benefit of a few, but all.

Y. W. C. A.

The regular weekly service of the Y. W. C. A. was held on Sunday under the leadership of Miss Ruth Huber. The subject of the meeting, "The Give and Take of College Life," was dealt with very well by the speaker. The college student must guard against the habit of receiving more than he gives in return.

Miss Hoover gave a very interesting and instructive account of "The New Great President of China." We learned that his official title is Li-Yuaw-Hung, and "In appearance he is strong and robust with a dark complexion, kindly eyes, a pleasant, friendly, intelligent expression. In manner he is simple and unaffected. He is interested in missionaries and especially in Y. M. C. A. work. He is not shrinking from his task however great the difficulties. But if he succeeds in establishing and maintaining peace in uniting his country and keeping it independent of foreign domination, he will have won an unsurpassed success."

The musical numbers on the program were rare treats. Clio indeed counts herself fortunate in having the music students render such splendid selections.

During the previous weeks we have heard much of the eight hour law and yet some of us haven't fully comprehended its real meaning. So, the discussion pro and con, by Miss Lenhart and Miss Snyder on this subject was intensely interesting and rather exciting. Miss Snyder proved to us how we did no work at all.

PHILO.

Friday night Philo Hall was well filled, a large percentage of the members and quite a few visitors being present to listen to one of the best programs of the present year. The attendance was very gratifying to all since it denies the cry of some who say society interest as a whole is waning.

The first paper of the evening on "Happenings at Other Colleges" was read by Mr. Ehrhart. It contained many helpful facts as well as some pleasing humor, a combination sure of success.

Next was scheduled an impromptu by Mr. Lefever. Before being given his subject Mr. Lefever showed signs of uneasiness but when the subject "Ladies" was announced he showed remarkable ability. From his talk one could judge the ladies were his chief topic of thought and worry.

The question of whether or not our ports should be closed to belligerent nations was debated affirmatively by Messrs. McLaughlin and Snively, and negatively by Messrs. Williams and Herring. Both sides showed excellent knowledge of this timely subject but the judges decided the negative had a shade the better of the argument.

Mr. Deibler's piano solo came next and was much appreciated by all. This was followed by a sketch portraying an ideal (?) class in psychology with Mr. Boughter as the Professor and Messrs. Wingerd, Sloat, Hastings, Fencil and Heberlig as pupils. To say the least it was very amusing and highly instructive. Editor Shettle then presented his very much alive "Living Thots." His pleasing personalities and amusing jokes kept every one in an uproar during his entire paper.

In closing there was a speech from Prof. Grimm and short talks from other of the visitors all of whom expressed their pleasure at being present.

KALO.

The program which was given last Friday evening in Kalo Hall was a very good one. The first number "What Happened" by Chas. C. Hartman was a good live discussion of happenings both around school, in this country and abroad. The paper was well prepared and well read. The second number by Ammon Boltz, a paper on "Contemporary Ideals of Education," was a fine discussion of the subject. This subject is not one to be discussed in a few words, but requires much time and research work, but to say that Mr. Boltz discussed it well is putting it mildly. An extemporaneous quartette, composed of Messrs. Thornton, Nissley, Sherk, and Martin showed their fine art of music by rendering very artistically and feelingly two appropriate numbers much to the pleasure of all those who heard them. The Parliamentary drill which followed was interesting and full of life. The bill to be passed, that of the placing of more restrictions upon immigrants coming to this country was discussed freely on both sides. The debates were lively and to the point. After much arguing a vote was called for, which resulted in the passage of the bill. After a chorus by the Society, Miles Thornton read a paper on "Impressions." The paper was excellent and gave the speaker's impression of Lebanon Valley since his arrival at school. Taken as a whole, his impressions seemed to be most favorable. The program throughout showed careful preparation on the part of those who gave the various numbers. Two of the men appeared on the program for the first time, and from their work, we predict great success to them.

Millersville Normal School O;
Reserves O

Millersville State Normal School proved a worthy opponent for our Reserves at Millersville on Saturday, and the gridiron contest ended in a 0 to 0 tie.

With the exception of the third quarter, in which period the Normal School boys were on our four-yard line, neither team was within their opponent's twenty-yard line. The Reserves used all sorts of plays but made progress on end runs only, while the Millersville team used the old style of play. The game was a hard struggle from start to finish. The Normal School had not won a game this year, and seemed to put

The Carlisle team showed great form at times, and at the start of the game looked dangerous, but they could not withstand the aggressive work of the Lebanon Valley eleven. May, their left halfback and captain, was their only consistent gainer.

The work of Chas. Loomis and "Hinkey" Haines was particularly pleasing. Loomis was in the game from beginning to end, and many times his deadly tackling was instrumental in checking the Redskins. Haines showed that he possessed real football ability, and we shall expect much from him in the future. Line-up:

It may be said that after a number of shifts were made, the Reserves played much better football. They attempted a field goal in the third period but failed.

Varsity Bows to Bucknell

Bucknell sprung a surprise on Lebanon Valley Thanksgiving Day at Lewisburg, when our eleven was defeated 8 to 0.

The defeat was entirely unexpected, but the condition of the gridiron goes a long way toward explaining the poor showing of Lebanon Valley. The rain of Wednesday had put the field in fit shape for making mud pies, the mire was more than ankle deep, and made anything but straight line plunging football impossible.

The contest resolved itself into a close, hard battle from the start, and at the end of the first half no scoring had been done by either team. During this part of the game Lebanon Valley forced the playing and twice had opportunities to score touchdowns. Both were forward passes, Goff to Adams and Keating to Adams, and had the turf afforded a suitable foundation we would undoubtedly have been the victors instead of the vanquished, but luck "passed by on the other side" and "Tim" missed both by the smallest margins, when a clean catch in either case meant a touchdown. Tim's playing was irreproachable, but with a dry field perhaps there would be a different story to relate.

The second half started as a replica of the first, with Bucknell having a slight advantage. Then a pass from centre went wide and Haines was tackled back of our goal line after having recovered the ball and Bucknell went ahead, 2 to 0.

DR. COLVIN ORGANIZES PROHIBITION LEAGUE

D. Leigh Colvin, Ph. D., President of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, made Lebanon Valley a Thanksgiving call last Tuesday and spoke at length in Chapel about the conflict now raging between the advocates of national prohibition and the saloon interests. He feels that this conflict will culminate within a few years, that a national amendment is a possibility soon, and that the students now in college will be brought face to face with the struggle, and with a great opportunity to lead and to serve the moment they step out of college halls.

During his stay at Lebanon Valley a meeting of the Prohibition Association of L. V. was held and offi-

Clio. Celebrates 46th Anniversary

Amid the profusioned odors of chrysanthemums and roses, and an air filled with harmonious tones, about four hundred people gathered on Friday evening, November 24, in Engle Hall for the celebrating of Clio's Forty-sixth Anniversary. The stage dotted with ferns, decorated in gold and white, Clio's colors, and Clio pennants and banners, silently told the meaning of the occasion.

The programme that was rendered was a splendid one. The orations, as well as the reading and solo, showed great work and preparation. The music, too, needs special mention. The Lebanon Quintette played a rare type of composition such as only good musicians can play.

The President's address, "Education, A Preventive Agency," by Katherine R. Dasher, was up to and over the standard of such official addresses. From start to finish, the speaker, thru her composure, ease of expression and force of diction, also by the soundness of her arguments, held her audience spellbound. Showing, as she did, that the coming of education and the going of vice are complimentary processes, and evincing so strong a personal belief in the principles she was evincing, she accomplished the desired end of persuading her audience that she was right in her doctrine.

The second number on the program, Vocal Solos by Miss Ethel Strickler, was highly appreciated. She sang "Ah! Love but a Day," by Beach, and "To a Messenger," by Rogers, in such a pleasing tone that basing judgment on the applause, it was, indeed, very well done.

The first oration, "A Member-at-Large," by Miss Nettie Showers was excellent both in its thought and presentation. The author in the development of her theme showed how the longing for commercial gains overwhelmed man, how woman in entering the business world also fell victim to the same disease and how even the children are already drudging with "Child Labor." Her cure for this disease is Christianity and the place to begin is suggested in her conclusive statement, "The Child is the father of the man" and if the Christianity of the future is to mold the character and inspire the ideals of the coming America she must begin with the children of today."

The Second Oration, "The Heritage of the Child," by A. Louise Henry, also, deserves particular mention. The author contended

Lebanon Valley Defeats Susquehanna

Lebanon Valley resumed relations with Susquehanna University at Sunbury Saturday and won their fourth consecutive victory, 13 to 0. The game was hard fought from start to finish, for the teams were more nearly matched than had been predicted.

The first half ended with the ball near the middle of the field and with the score 0 to 0. Neither side could gain consistently and each in turn were forced to punt in the fourth downs. During this half it seemed that Susquehanna had the edge on Lebanon Valley, for they had kept the pigskin in our territory much of the time, but at the beginning of the second half even the spectators expected us to start the scoring and the Varsity did not disappoint them.

In the third Lebanon Valley scored its first touchdown. Cassler, the Susquehanna centre, made a poor pass as a result of a badly injured shoulder and "Hank" Morrison, recovering the ball, booted it for five or six yards to give it a good sense of direction, and then picked it up and ran thirty-five yards for a touchdown. Keating then kicked the goal.

Soon after the start of the fourth quarter Keating made a perfect forward pass to Atticks, who sprinted 20 yards for the second score. The kickoff was blocked but Lebanon Valley was ahead, 13 to 0. From that time on till the end of the game

Socrates taught that, "Knowledge is virtue. Therefore know thyself."

Today, we still believe that knowledge is a virtue, but to say that virtue is wholly dependent on knowledge has been proved to be a fallacy. The command made in the second part of his maxim, however, is still as imperative and as applicable as it was at the time it was first spoken.

"Know Thyself!"

"What will they say?" "What will they think?" These are two questions that confront us daily and ones that we propound to ourselves without reaching any satisfactory conclusions. Did you ever stop to consider how little they counted? What you do concerns you and concerns you more than it can possible concern others. No one can test your theories as you can test them. No one can know your abilities as you know them. Quoting from Ralph Waldo Trine:—

"Be true to the highest within your own soul and then allow yourself to be governed by no customs or conventionalities or man-made rules that are not founded upon principle.

We cannot be true to ourselves and at the same time be false to our associates. Our acts will eventually bring us either pleasure or sorrow, according to their nature. Stated as one of the fundamental laws of Physics, "To every action there is an equal and opposite reaction."

Some days ago a few students were assembled in a room, conversing on general topics, when one made the remark, "I have got a rotten deal in almost everything I have ever tried around here." A continuation of the conversation indicated that, according to this individual's opinion, everyone around the place, including both faculty and student, were the cause of this unfair treatment.

Are there any more who have the same opinion of their lot? If so, why not seek for the cause within yourself? Try to discover by self-analysis wherein lies the fault.

To give your lessons half-hearted preparation while your classmates are diligent, and then complaining about the professors showing partiality is as absurd as it is childish. To walk around with a chronic grouch or surrounded by an atmosphere that would freeze ice on the Fourth of July, and then expect others to treat you cordially, is equally as ridiculous.

The first step toward contentment in any community is learning to know yourself. Then cultivate ideals worth while within your soul and be true to them. You owe it to the social unit of which you are a part, to know yourself. You owe it to yourself to be true to the highest within your own soul.

that "play" is "The Heritage of the Child." She held that the child's voluntary imitation, when well directed, develops into the involuntary actions of the man known as "good habits."

She also said that it is a preparation which gives him principles of organization and co-operation and teaches him how to build character and resist temptation, making thus out of the boy of today the perfect man of tomorrow.

"Down in the Dewy Dell" by Clie Chorus was rich in musical qualities. The chorus sang up and above its usual standard as is evidenced by the fact that the audience applauded for an encore.

To the reading, "In the Palace of the King" by H. Ruth Heffelman, may well be applied the adage "Last but not least." The character impersonation was beyond criticism. So well did the reader delineate the actors that we almost felt as though we saw each one do his own deeds, say his own words, and act in perfect accordance with his character. Her position and diction was such as to hold her audience from very start to finish.

After the last number, the President invited everyone to attend the reception in the Gymnasium. This place, also, was decorated in Gold and White. The Quintette furnished the music while friend mingled with friend and had a general good time. Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the Reception.

President, E. Harold White, '17; Vice-president, William W. McConnel, '17; Secretary, E. Charles Hastings, '20; Treasurer, Paul Hilbert, '19; Reporter, David Gregory, '18. Preparations are being made by all colleges to send one or more delegates to the great national convention held at Lexington, Kentucky, December 28-31, and it is the aim of the local league to send at least two delegates. Lebanon Valley needs to get in close touch with this great movement and it is hoped that the student body will do their part in raising funds to send these men. Among the most prominent speakers at this convention will be William Jennings Bryan and Senator Kenyon from Colorado.

Our friend R. Kinport has generously set the ball rolling with a contribution, and we hope that the students, faculty, alumnae, and friends of Lebanon Valley will all help send a representative delegation to Lexington.

It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade.—[Henry Ward Beecher.

Varsity Bows to Bucknell

From that point until the end of the game both teams fought fiercely, and when, five minutes before the end of the game, Loomis intercepted a forward pass and carried it to the middle of the field it looked again as if we would be victorious. But Lebanon Valley was off-side and the ball was brought back to our five-yard line. On the next play Bucknell went thru the line for a touchdown, and the crowd went "wild." Bucknell failed to kick the goal and shortly after the game ended.

The defeat was a great disappointment to Lebanon Valley, but Bucknell played a high grade of football and deserved to win. Line-up:

RESERVES 18 SUNBURY H. S. 0

The Reserves ended their successful season by defeating Sunbury High School at Sunbury on Thanksgiving Day, 18 to 0.

The Sunbury team was a well coached eleven, with a fine variety of plays, but they were no match for our older and heavier reserve team. The game was not without its doubtful moments, and at different periods of the game Snively was forced to kick from under the shadow of his own goal posts, but the Reserves were out to win and they accomplished their aim.

"Bill" Zeigler played one of his best games of the year.

Rumor has it that the Freshmen were on a banquet yesterday. This might be some indication that they are at last coming to life and one of these days man issue a challenge to the Sops for a football game.

SOCIAL NOTES

On Tuesday before the adjournment for Thanksgiving Vacation, a group of the Senior girls entertained a number of their classmates. The evening was spent in making candy, playing games and having a good time in general. Those present were the Misses Catherine Dasher, Nettie Showers, Ruth Hoffman and Naomi Hand; Mr. Abram Long, Mr. Ross Swartz, Mr. Charles Horstick and Mr. Charles Loomis.

A delightful little taffy-pulling party was held in the kitchen at Senior Hall last Tuesday evening. The earlier part of the evening was spent in playing games while later the puzzling proposition—pulling taffy—occupied the more industrious members in attendance. Those present were Misses Pauline Clark, Ruth Huber, May Garver, Violet Wolfe, Christine Carter, Esther Bachman, Messrs. Harold White, Edwin H. Zeigler, Paul S. Wagner, William Keating, D. R. Fink, Marlin Wenrich and LeRoy Umberger.

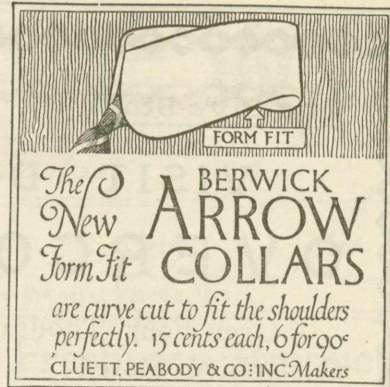

Miss Gertrude Schmidt and Miss May Belle Adams were "at home" to about thirty-five guests on Friday, Dec. 1, at the home of Mrs. David Kreider. The rooms were beautifully decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums while the lighted candles added a delicate glow to the table which was presided over by Mrs. Sheldon and Miss Seltzer, who assisted the hostess by pouring tea and chocolate.

Miss Floss Mentz '15, who is at present teaching in the High School at High Bridge, N. J., spent her Thanksgiving vacation the guest of Miss Kathryn Bachman.

Mr. Ralph Stickell '15, now in the employ of one of the Kreider Distributing Houses in Pittsburg, spent several days visiting friends at school during Thanksgiving vacation.

Loving kindness is greater than laws; and the charities of life are more than all ceremonies.—[Talmud.]

Philo. Smoker

Thursday evening the upper classmen of Philo revived the former custom of giving an informal smoker and general get-together party in honor of her underclass members.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing games of various kinds and, of course, smoking. Everybody smoked, regardless of the morning after.

Later a mock trial was given in which Horstick was charged, tried and convicted of stealing a chicken by the novel method of a fishing line baited with a grain of corn and suspended from his window. Judge Rutherford sentenced the offender to nineteen years of hard labor in the Eastern Penitentiary.

After the trial the orchestra furnished music for dancing which in turn furnished appetite for the refreshments that followed.

A quartette, and more games and songs by the crowd wound up this most enjoyable evening.

Y. W. C. A.

One of the best Y. W. C. A. services of the year was held on Sunday in the Engle Conservatory. "Purpose the Backbone of Character," the topic for the day was dealt with in a pleasing and helpful manner by the leader, Miss Kathryn Harris. After a general discussion of the subject, Miss Ruth Craft, of Ursinus College, and our Y. W. C. A. representative to the National Board, gave a most interesting talk on the relation of our Y. W. C. A. to the whole world. Many of us do not realize to what a great organization we belong, we are not merely a little independent society, but are part of a great national association. We are a link in a large chain which is striving to encircle the world, and it is our duty and obligation to make our link as strong as possible. To carry forward the work of such an organization as the Y. W. C. A. takes will power, and determined purpose, but since these are the "backbone of character" the effort is worth while.

"Hank" Morrison Elected Captain

A meeting of the "L" men of the 1916 football team was held and S. Franklin (Hank) Morrison elected captain of next fall's eleven. Hank has completed his third year as a Lebanon Valley end and his election as captain is testimony of his work.

The election of a leader in any line of sport is a serious undertaking, for much depends upon the example set and the part taken by him in shaping the policies of the team. Hank has always been a hard worker in football, and the selection of the "L" men has the popular approval of the entire student body. We wish him nothing worse than the captaincy of the best team that Lebanon Valley will have produced.

BASKET BALL SQUAD BEGINS PRACTICE

With the football season a part of Lebanon Valley history, attention is already beginning to centre around the coming basketball season. Captain Charles Loomis and Coach Guyer have had the twenty-five candidates practicing for the past two weeks, and there seems to be a glowing prospect for the winter.

Freshmen Banquet

Though it is no longer customary for the Sophomores to attempt interference with the Freshman banquet, the Freshmen this year evidently wished to take no chances, going directly from their homes Dec. 4th to Lancaster, where in the Brunswick Hotel the banquet was held.

Upon the request of Miss Seaman, the chaperone, the City Father of Lancaster, dispensed with the usual nine o'clock curfew so that no interruption could be possible on that score.

The banquet was served promptly at eight o'clock, about thirty Freshmen being present. After they had devoured everything within sight, the Toastmaster, Mr. Butler, called on the following people who responded with toasts. Mr. Seltzer, President's Address; Miss Fink, "Our Boys;" Mr. Ressler, "Our Girls;" Miss Snively, "The Life of a Freshman."

Afterwards a dance was held in the commodious hall of the hotel.

Every Freshman present reports having had an exceptionally fine time though apparently all were glad to return to school Tuesday morning.

Y. M. C. A.

We were fortunate in having with us last Sunday in Y. M. C. A. Rev. Whitman who brought one of the most helpful and inspiring messages of the year. As a Scripture lesson he used the life of Moses and his relation with God and the Israelites. He pointed out the disappointments that Moses experienced and showed how God always turned these disappointments into blessings. From this he drew the practical application of how we often in the face of the most bitter disappointment, when we have our ambitions or plans for the future shattered, may find that this is merely a new avenue that God has opened up for us in his Divine wisdom. The meeting was well attended and a new vision of life or at least a renewal of inspiration was given to those present.

Next Sunday the leader of the meeting will be Russell R. Ehrhart, who will use as his subject, "The Real Spirit of Christmas."

THE MODERN EDUCATIONAL TENDENCY.

One of the great problems of modern concern is "Is the world growing better or becoming worse?" Although this is a matter for theological discussion as a rule, it may also be applied to the educational and institutional side of life is the American College and its student on a higher plane of application than it was ten, twenty or more years ago, or is it retrograding?

So far as the plane of College, itself, is concerned, its curriculum is one of ever increasing efficiency, for it has at its disposal the right of adoption and use of every advanced principle, and theory that any individual in his zest for supremacy has advanced and established. Thus continually clinging to what it already has, and adding as it sees fit, or as competition demands, the college has no chance to deteriorate educationally.

Now, then, let us consider the constituents of the College, the students. What is the tendency among these? Here, we cannot make any comparison between the established College and the created student, for, believing that genius is not transmitted from father to son, the latter must strive for all his attainments—a matter of years and midnight oil—while the college can add anything in a day by mere appointment. Time, patience and application, then, are necessary requisites. But, without the least pessimism, we may safely say that the general trend is to "get by" and not to get things thoroly by spending any length of time or diligence over it. There are too many other affairs to occupy the time of the student and in a way he isn't to be blamed for the lack of preparation, for every obstacle being placed in his way, rather than removed, it is no wonder that he finds no spare moments. Then, too, laxity of requirement on the part of Professors determines to a great extent the course that a student takes, favorable or unfavorable, disposed or indisposed.

Summing up, the modern tendency is not "how much can I, as a student, get out of my course," but "how much must I, as a student, get out of any course in order to pass" placing the responsibility almost directly upon the laxity or severity of the faculty.

A CHRISTIAN'S THOUGHTS AT LIFE'S EVENTIDE.

I feel that God is calling
With his wondrous drawing love.
'Tis easing all my suffering
As it flows from Heaven above.

And I know my Saviour's waiting
In a robe of spotless white,
To greet a wandering pilgrim
To a place eternally light.

Where there shall be no darkness
For the light is from the Son,
Reflected from the Father's glory
Around the great white throne.

There will be singing and rejoicing
For the Father's wondrous love,
How he sent his Son to save us
From a world of sin and woe.

'Twill be a sweet and blessed privilege
As we kneel around the throne,
When the glory of Heaven fills us
And we know as we are known.

Loved ones there will greet us
With a happy gladsome smile,
And then a great reunion
Which will last for all the while.

There we'll praise our blessed master
In a bright and endless day,
And anchored in his fulfilled promise
We will never drift away.

—Edgar C. Hastings, '19.

Miss Mary Haines visited Miss Ethel Rupp at her home in Chambers Hill.

Miss Evelyn Snavelly spent Sunday visiting friends in Lebanon.

Mr. Austin Lerew returned to college on Sunday after visiting at his home in Dillsburg.

Professor Derickson, who has been ill for the past few months, has been given leave of absence to recuperate. The faculty and student body undoubtedly miss Professor Derickson and the absence of his quiet influence has been keenly felt during his illness. Professor Arndt of Perdu University and a member of Lebanon Valley's class of 1914 will take charge of the Biology department after Christmas until Professor Derickson's return.

Professor Derickson would like all Biology reference books returned immediately to the Laboratory. It is especially imperative that "Parker's, Ontogeny" be returned.

"MUSICAL NOTES"

The third number of the Friday evening musicale course at Harrisburg was given Dec. 8 by Leopold Godowsky, pianist, assisted by Miss Belle Story, young American prima donna. Three auto parties from Lebanon Valley College Conservatory of Music enjoyed their most delightful and entertaining program.

We are sorry to note the death of Rev. S. B. Wengert, father of Miss Sara Wengert, Conservatory, and to her we extend our sincere sympathies.

JUNIOR PLAY.

The Junior Class has chosen "Anne, of Old Salem," an historical drama in three acts for their annual play. The caste chosen by Miss Adams is now busily engaged practicing under her tutelage.

It is proposed to present the play sometime in February and a production to warrant your best support is guaranteed.

COLLEGE NEWS

PHILOKOSMIAN.

Philos program opened Friday evening with a very interesting "Sketch of the Life of President Wilson." From the facts in Mr. Morrow's paper it was easily seen how Mr. Wilson has attained his present position as Chief Executive of our Nation.

Mr. Hastings' discussion of the "Aerial Preparedness of the U. S. Army" followed. He showed on the one hand the general inadequacy of our aerial supplies as compared on the other with the indomitable American Spirit for meeting any situation, the increased interest and appropriations of the various states for aerial preparedness and the nucleus of the aerial coast patrol that has its beginning in Maine.

The debate on the Justifiability of the Eight Hour Day law followed. Messrs. McConnel and White were the Affirmative speakers, Messrs. E. Zeigler and Rarig the Negative. The preparation of the debaters was excellent and their analysis of this important, present day problem marks them as capable candidates for future legal honors. The judges upheld the affirmative in their decision.

Mr. Fencil's flute solo was also very much appreciated as was shown by the applause compelling an encore.

The last number was a paper on "Life" by Mr. Boughter. Mr. Boughter treated both psychological and practical side of this rather broad subject in his usual philosophically humorous way.

The life that goes out in love to all is the life that is full, and rich, and continually expanding in beauty and in power. Such is the life that becomes ever more inclusive, and hence larger in its scope and influence.

Simply the first hour of this new day, with all its richness and glory, with all its sublime and eternity-determining possibilities, and each succeeding hour as it comes, but not before it comes—that is the secret of character building.

Life is not so complex if we do not persist in making it so. We need faith; we need to be brave; we need chronically to keep the corners of the mouth turned up and not down. And after all it is only a step at a time.

KALOZETIAN

If anyone could have listened to the program which the Kalozetian Literary Society rendered last Friday night without as much as smiling, that person must have surely been made of stone, for the entire program was humorous, and some parts extremely funny. The first number, "Dutch Epics," by Carl Shannon, was divided into two parts, as the writer said: one part, Pennsylvania Dutch, and the other, some kind of Dutch. The paper was well written and contained some very attractive subject matter.

The second number, "Some Do and Some Don't," by B. C. V. Ressler was a paper full of truths as some people know them. Not only was the paper well written but it was well presented and it was also received very well. This paper was followed by a Humorous Rollicall, at which time every member of the Society present, as well as the visitors responded with a joke or anecdote. The collection of stories given would have been fit to be placed in the best joke book published, for they were all good, and several of them exceptional.

Then came the debate "Resolved, That Woman's Intellect is Equal to That of Man's," debated affirmatively by Ammon Boltz and O. P. Greenawalt, and negatively by Raymond Nissley and Wm. Isaacs. The debate was interesting, lively and funny, and decided by the judges in favor of the negative.

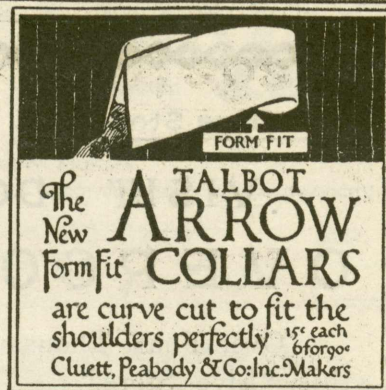

After the singing of the German edition of "De Wacht am Rhein," L. R. Walters read a paper on "Do You Remember?" The paper proposed to have been written in 1936 and brought back memories of more than 20 years before. While not extremely humorous, the paper was written in a light vein throughout. The Editor of the Examiner surely had a remarkable number of this much appreciated paper, judging from the laughs and the applause.

Visitors always find a hearty welcome awaiting them, and are always invited to visit the Society.

GENIUS

He is not a Genius in the greatest sense of the word, the man who, with his giant intellect, startles the multitude with sudden thunder.

There is a mightier: he who would stir up the soul, with a kind, sympathizing heart. It is this which vibrates thru the soul, leaps in the warm pulses, and urges us to deeds of mercy. This man whose sympathies are with common humanity, breathes thoughts that will never die.

There is,— Nothing purer than honesty,

Nothing sweeter than charity,
Nothing warmer than love,
Nothing richer than wisdom,
Nothing brighter than virtue,
Nothing more steadfast than faith;

These united in one mind form the purest, the sweetest, the warmest, the richest, the brightest, and the most lasting happiness.

The News Extends Best Wishes to All for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

Clio-Philo Holds Joint Session

Friday night Philo and Clio met in their first Joint Session of this year. The meeting was held in Philo Hall and as customary at the first Joint Session, Philo officers presided. The Hall was crowded to its capacity, nearly every member of both Societies being present in the hope of a good program. A hope that was later fully gratified.

The first number was representative of Clio's excellent musical talent, a piano duet by Misses Dare and Rhodes.

Mr. Boughter's original story followed. Mr. Boughter chose for his subject, "The Pain of Preparation," and under this head he treated graphically some of the many woes of mankind in general and of the L. V. male student in particular. The story was humorous throughout, though withal it was very practical.

After this story Miss Helen Schach read "Convict B606." This reading is one full of the Christmas spirit and as presented by Miss Schach was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The next number was musical, a quartette by Misses Smith and Schmidt, and Messrs. Gregory and Zeigler. Had the quartette been willing they would have been made to sing many times but the audience was compelled to be satisfied with one encore.

"Science and Feminism," a paper by Mr. Williams, was next on the program. The subject seemed to warrant a serious paper and Mr. Williams treated it seriously. He had an excellent paper, however, one from which much could be learned if it was carefully followed.

MATH ROUND TABLE

Last Wednesday eve at 6:30, the Math Round Table met in its monthly meeting. The first number on the program "Early Mathematics" by Violet Wolfe was interesting and entertaining. The second number, "The Cause for the Dislike of Math" by Harold Risser, was well discussed. Taking his word as final, those who dislike math may as a rule trace their dislike for it to some incompetent teacher.

Basket Ball Team Wins First Game

Lebanon Valley opened the basketball season Thursday evening by defeating the Lebanon Y. M. C. A. team 51 to 38. The game is an annual affair, and as the purpose of the contest is primarily a trying-out contest by the coach and captain; several new men were seen in the game for Lebanon Valley.

The first half was a whirlwind affair, in which our boys did most of the "whirling." The team-work and passing was excellent for the first game of the year. Keating and Swartz struck their old stride the moment the referee's whistle blew, and nothing could stop them; baskets were scored from any angle and from every point on the floor. Seltzer played his first varsity game at centre, and was in the game every minute. Captain Loomis played his usual strong, steady game, breaking up passes and taking the aggressive at opportune moments. The

Y. W. C. A. BAZAAR

The annual Y. W. C. A. Bazaar was held on Friday, Dec. 16th, in the college gymnasium. The constant babble of voices mingled with the variety of gay colors seemed to transport every one to a real Oriental Bazaar. The booth committees vied with each other to obtain highest honors for decorations and indeed there was great evidence of close competition. The fortune telling corner was a great novelty but all will agree that nothing was so novel as the Old Curiosity Shop. Many beautiful scenes in Greece, The Destruction of China, High Tide and Low Tide together with many other interesting historic and scientific antiques afforded much laughter. Most every thing from ice cream to costly embroideries could be had at the various booths. Many people including Coach Guyer found a reimbursement of the pocketbook necessary before the end of the evening. The Bazaar Committee feels that the whole affair was a great success.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

The leader in Y. M. C. A. on Sunday, speaking on the topic, "The Christmas Spirit," recalled to our minds the first Christmas, nearly two thousand years ago. That was the occasion of the first and greatest Christmas gift, The gift of God to the entire world in the form of Christ. His only son, who after a short but serviceable life, gave Himself a sacrifice for the sins of the world.

Out of that, or rather in commemoration of that day, the custom of exchanging gifts among relatives and friends was established, a custom that has prevailed down thru the centuries, which fact is characteristic of this custom alone and distinguishes it from all others. If we were to define the Christmas spirit, we might speak of it as the general atmosphere of good-will, good-cheer, happiness and joy that is prevalent around Christmas Day, brought about by the following out of this custom.

It is claimed by some, however, and probably with some degree of validity, that we have allowed the spirit of the season to degenerate. That we are usually happy and joyful because of what we receive rather than what we give. Other assert that we have lost many of the qualities which should be present in the heart of a true giver. The motive, for instance, is often the base one of expecting something in return, or sometimes, we give out of a feeling of obligation. Contrasted this we have spirit in which God made his immortal gift, a spirit containing primarily the noble elements of love and sacrifice. Since we established a custom thru the act of the first Giver, why not try to approximate His spirit also, in carrying out this custom?

What should be the nature of our gifts?

That is a matter for the individual to decide, but remember, the gift is secondary to the motives which prompt the giving.

No better illustration, of two manners of giving, can be found than in the poem written by James Russell Lowell, "The Vision of Sir Launfal."

We see the knight leaving his castle with pomp and in the full vigor of youth, in search of the much coveted "Holy Grail." He is acquainted with the conditions necessary for the obtaining of this valuable relic and feels ready to meet them. There sits the beggar by the road, asking for alms. Sir Launfal in scorn tosses him a coin and hastens on his errand.

After many years of unsuccessful searching, the knight again meets this same beggar, as he approaches his castle. His quest has been all in vain and he is returning home. He is an old man now, his wealth all gone and his spirit broken. His sole possession is a crust of bread. As the beggar appeals to him for food and drink, Sir Launfal shares with him this crust of bread and going to a nearby stream, secures a cup of water which he gives to the beggar.

We are all familiar with the remainder of the story, how the cup is transformed into the Holy Grail and the beggar changed into the likeness of Christ. Here we have two standards by which to judge the motives which prompt our giving. Apply them to your own experiences and decide for yourself, whether or not you have the true conception of the Christmas spirit.

Y. M. C. A.

"The Christmas Spirit" was the topic discussed last Sunday in Y. M. C. A. The Leader, Mr. Russell Ehrhart, brought a timely message, touching on the nature of our Christmas gifts and the spirit in which we give. He called attention to the first Christmas more than nineteen hundred years ago when the world received its greatest gift, the Christ who died to redeem mankind from their sins. Since the present day custom of exchanging gifts at Christmas time had its origin from that time, we should allow the same spirit that was manifested by God in the gift of his son, prevail in our minds and hearts to-day when we give and receive gifts from our friends. The meeting was thrown open for general discussion and the fact that many responded showed the subject to be one of common interest.

Clio-Philo Holds Joint Session

Next came the sketch, from which also much could be learned. Some have said that no new sketches could be given, this one absolutely disproved that statement. It portrayed in two acts the pre-nuptial actions of a college professor. The third act being the climax when the professor is happily married to the lady of his choice.

The Olive Branch and Living Thots closed the Literary program. They were, as usual, distinctly humorous and distributed personalities without fear or favor.

After the Literary program the Philo acted as hosts for a social hour during which light refreshments were served.

Y. W. C. A.

All those who attended the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday enjoyed an excellent Christmas service led by Miss Miriam Oyer. After the Scripture lesson a quartette composed of Misses Lorenz, Smith, Mutch and Miller, sang a Christmas carol. Miss Oyer spoke about the influence of Christianity. "What would this world of ours be like, if Christ had never been born?" Do we ever stop to realize that most of the best works of art, literature, music, architecture, sculpture have been due to the inspiration of Christianity?

KALOZETEAN.

The program of the Kalozetean Literary Society last Friday evening, although shorter than the usual program, was interesting throughout. The first number of the evening, "National Comment," by Jacob Gingrich, was a very good review of interesting events of the last few weeks. Mr. Gingrich is a new-comer in the Society, and did very well in his first appearance on the program. Myrle Brown read an excellent paper on "The British Blacklist." The paper was a clear, concise account of this much misunderstood question, and showed the writer's insight into this matter of international concern. The piano duets by Messrs. Hilbert and Greer, were well rendered and greatly appreciated. The subject "Colonial America" was ably discussed by Charles Frost. The subject was treated in a way which interested everyone, and contrary to the usual paper on this subject was not filled with uninteresting dates which prove so monotonous to most persons. After a chorus by the society, Edward Allen gave a very practical discussion on "Improved Methods in Poultry Raising." Anyone contemplating going into the business of raising poultry, could have secured many useful and serviceable hints which would be of practical value to him.

tures. The first as well as most important of these is the fact that our goal line is the only one that the Army didn't cross in its entire season. Then, too, the holding of Oliphant to the small gains, as we did is remarkable. The Dartmouth game is one of the scores that should probably be lower, but, considering the adverse conditions under which we labored, L. V. need not be ashamed of it. On Villanova, we showed up fine, but the Lehigh game displayed the seasons climatic team work. We should have captured the Lafayette pigskin, but made up by defeating St. Joe's 71-0; Muhlenburg, 6-0; the Indians, 33-0; and Susquehanna, 13-0. Bucknell, 'tis true, defeated us in the final game, 8-0, but due to the muddy field, prohibiting fast end-running, etc., it was a game which depended merely on luck and that went against us.

Summing up, however, we had an extremely better season than we expected scoring 153 points to our opponents 91 and gringing home with 18 three pig-skins and wining the three home games.

SOPH'S BEAT FRESHMEN

The Freshies and Sophs resumed hostilities for a short time Monday afternoon when they played their annual football game, but as had been predicted the 1919 representatives enjoyed the contest much more than their adversaries, the Sophomores, winning easily, 25 to 0.

There was no doubt either in the minds of the players or spectators as to the outcome of the game, and interest was in the number of points the winners would be able to muster together. "Nixie" Mackert scored three touchdowns, one of them from kick-off after a seventy yard run, and with Shetter were the "strong men" in the Sophomore lineup. Kid Snively scored the other touchdown for their team.

The Freshmen went into the game knowing that they were clearly outclassed, and they put up a game fight despite the odds against them. Many of their number were learning the "rudiments" of the great college sport, and they only can tell how thankful they were when the contest was called shortly after the beginning of the fourth quarter.

Only once during the afternoon were the Freshmen in a position to score. By fine runs, in which the work of Baines was the most prominent, they advanced the ball close to their opponents' ten-yard line but could not show the reserve strength necessary to carry the pigskin across the line.

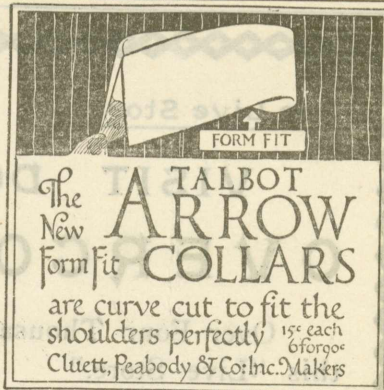

Captain Lerew of the Sophomores can be proud of his team and of the record made in this inter-class contest, but we could not help admire the gameness of Simmondette's Freshmen, and the playing of such men as Baines, Haines, Zeigler and Costello. Lineup:

Touchdowns: Mackert, 3; Snively. Goal from touchdown, Mackert. Referee, Ross Swartz. Umpire, Russ Rupp. Timekeeper, Rutherford. Head linesman, T. Goulden Foltz.

a large extent making the only radical change in the method of electing managers and assistant managers of committee followed the old form to the various athletic teams.

Instead of managers being elected by the association as a whole, which was the former method, the letter men of each sport together with the manager and coach will vote for this officer. Provision was also made, under the changed constitution, for two assistant managers. One of these will take care of the advertising and the other will perform the duties which have always constituted his work. These two men are to be elected by the Association from three candidates nominated by the letter men, Coach and manager.

Under the conditions of the new constitution, Charles Gemmil was elected manager of next year's football team; Miles Morrison, assistant manager; and Walter Deibler, advertising manager. The following were elected officers of the association:—President, Douglas Beidle; Vice President, Dale Garber; Secretary, John McGinnis; Treasurer, Daniel Walters.

other guard position was held by Shetter, whose playing was dependable and brainy as usual. During the progress of the second half Mackert, Jaeger, Fishburn, and Barnhart were substituted, and their playing enhances the work of Coach Guyer and Loomis in selecting the best team.

The Lebanon team played their strongest game in the second half, but their cause was hopeless. Hollinger proved his adeptness at foul shooting, and Miller, their diminutive forward, played a star game and deserved to be on the winning side.
